1.0 Overview

CTA conducted an open house to update residents about the Red Line Extension project. This update included summarizing the results of the NEPA scoping process that concluded October 27, 2009. The open house also was an opportunity for community members to ask questions about the range of actions, alternatives, environmental effects, and mitigation measures to be analyzed in the Environmental Impact Statement (EIS).

2.0 Open House Database

The notification database, which was developed for the September 2009 scoping meetings, was maintained and updated for this open house. To the extent possible, the database included both mailing addresses and e-mail addresses.

The notification database developed for scoping includes residents and businesses adjacent to the proposed build alternative alignments. Addresses for businesses and residences on parcels either immediately adjacent to the proposed alignment or separated from the alignment by a street, park, vacant parcel, or one residence, were included in the notification database. Parcels on both the east and west sides of the UPRR Alternative and parcels adjacent to both sides of the Halsted Alternative were included. The database also included those who attended meetings or provided comments in the Alternatives Analysis (AA) phase and/or during the September 2009 scoping process.

In addition to those identified during the AA process and September 2009 scoping meetings, the database was expanded to include residents who had requested to receive updates about Your Red projects during the January 2011 scoping meetings for the Red & Purple Modernization project. At the time of the open house, a total of 3,868 parties were listed on the Red Line Extension project database including 3,708 mailing addresses and 751 e-mail addresses.

3.0 Public Notification Activities

Postcard invitations were mailed directly to people in the project database and e-blast messages were sent to individuals on the e-mail distribution list. CTA also posted “transit cards” on CTA vehicles and in transit stations, and placed newspaper display ads in three publications. Additionally, the Red Line Extension project website was updated with information about the open house.

3.1 Postcard

Postcards were mailed on July 15, 2011 to a list of 3,868 entries that included elected officials, government agencies, residents, businesses, community organizations, neighborhood associations, and property owners adjacent to both sides of the proposed build alternative alignments. The postcard provided details about the open house including the closest transit access. The mailing list is included in Appendix A and the postcard is in Appendix B.

3.2 Transit Cards

In order to reach a large audience of transit riders, CTA placed “transit cards” or “car cards” with the open house information in various buses and stations in the project area. CTA distributed approximately 860 transit cards on July 11, 2011 for posting at all Red Line stations, on Red Line rail cars and on bus routes originating from the 103rd Street Garage. A copy of the transit card is in Appendix C.

3.3 E-blast

On July 18, 2011, an invitation e-mail that included information about the open house was sent to 751 e-mail addresses of people who had previously demonstrated an interest in the Red Line Extension project. A copy of the e-blast is in Appendix D.

3.4 Newspaper Display Advertisements

To invite the public to the open house, display advertisements were placed in three newspapers within the project area. Newspapers were selected based on their geographic focus, language needs and audited circulation numbers. Display ads ran during the weeks of July 17 and July 24, 2011. Ads were placed in different papers on different days of the week. The tear sheets of each newspaper ad are in Appendix E.

Newspaper	Ad Size	Geographic Coverage	Language	First Ad Date	Second Ad Date
Chicago Sun-Times	1/4 page	Region	English	Sun, 7/17/11	Mon, 7/25/11
Hoy	1/2 page	Citywide	Spanish	Mon, 7/18/11	Tues, 7/26/11
Chicago Defender	1/4 page	South	English	Wed, 7/20/11	--
Chicago Defender	1/2 page	South	English	Wed, 7/27/11	--

3.5 Project Website

The Red Line Extension project website, www.transitchicago.com/redEIS/, was updated in July 2011 to include details about the open house. The website was originally developed in fall 2009 for the project and contains information about the project alternatives, the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) process and the scoping report.

3.6 Additional Outreach for Open House

In order to maximize the coverage of the outreach effort for the open house, CTA sent a news release to local media outlets.

4.0 Elected Official and Stakeholder Briefings

CTA representatives conducted 12 briefings with elected officials or stakeholders about the Red Line Extension project. Most of the briefings were conducted prior to the open house to allow elected officials an opportunity to reach out to their constituents prior to the open house. Generally, briefings covered a description of the project and the scoping process. CTA officials met with:

- Office of Illinois Representative Monique Davis, 27th District, July 20, 2011
- Office of Illinois Senator Emil Jones III, 14th District, July 20, 2011

● Open House Summary

- Office of Chicago Alderwoman Carrie Austin, 34th Ward, July 21, 2011
- Office of Chicago Alderman Anthony Beale, 9th Ward, July 21, 2011
- Developing Communities Project, July 21, 2011
- Office of Chicago Alderman Roderick Sawyer, 6th Ward, July 25, 2011
- Roseland Business Development Council, July 26, 2011
- Office of Chicago Alderman Howard Brookins, Jr., 21st Ward, July 27, 2011
- Office of Cook County Commissioner Joan Patricia Murphy, 6th District, July 27, 2011
- Office of U.S. Representative Jesse Jackson, Jr., 2nd District, July 28, 2011
- Office of Illinois Senator Martin Sandoval, 12th District, July 29, 2011
- Office of Illinois Representative Cynthia Soto, 4th District, August 8, 2011
- Illinois Representative William Davis, 30th District, August 1st, 2011

Summaries of each elected official briefing are in Appendix F except for the meeting on August 1st at which no notes were kept. However, the content of that briefing was similar to the other briefings.

5.0 Participating Agency Update Letters

CTA provided an update on the project to the participating agencies to inform them of the project status and invite them to the Open House. Participating agencies are federal, state, and local agencies with an interest in the project because of an overlap in their area of jurisdiction or some specialized knowledge of potential project effects. The list of participating agencies is in Appendix G. Appendix H contains sample update letters for both federal and state or local participating agencies.

6.0 Open House

CTA conducted an open house to update the public about the project and the results of the NEPA scoping process and to provide people with an opportunity to ask questions about the project in an informal setting. The location was near the center of the project area and was accessible by public transportation. The location was American Disabilities Act (ADA) compliant.

For the convenience of all attendees, bus routes to and from the open house location were publicized on the postcard, the e-blast, and on the website. In order to provide the greatest opportunity for community participation, the open house was scheduled in the early evening on a weekday.

A total of 96 people signed in at the open house. There were a few additional attendees who did not want to sign in. Copies of the sign in sheets are in Appendix I.

Time: 6 to 8:30 p.m.
Date: Tuesday, August 2, 2011

Location: St. John Missionary Baptist Church
211 E. 115th St.
Chicago, IL 60628

During the open house, project team members and CTA representatives were present at project display boards to answer questions related to the technical aspects of the project. The open house session provided attendees with an opportunity to review the project information, clarify their understanding of the project and environmental process, and give feedback about the alternatives. Spanish and sign language interpreters were made available during the open house.

6.1 Materials

Each open house attendee was offered a comment card and a fact sheet on issues that will be analyzed in the Draft EIS. The comment card allowed attendees to submit written comments during or after the open house. The comment card was designed as a self-mailer so that individuals could easily mail comments to CTA if they needed more time to develop them after the open house. The issues fact sheet outlined the concerns community members expressed during the scoping meetings in 2009 and provided a preliminary summary of how the proposed Red Line Extension might affect environmental elements such as traffic, noise, and aesthetics. A second fact sheet on the real estate acquisition process was available to those with specific questions on that topic. Copies of all of the comment cards returned as of the date of this summary are included in Appendix J and a copy of each fact sheet is in Appendix K.

Project exhibit boards were developed and used during the open house. The boards included:

- Welcome to the Red Line Extension Open House
- Red Line Extension – What’s New?
- Project Purpose
- Why Extend the Red Line?
- Project Development Process
- Planning for the Red Line Extension
- Environmental Review Process
- Issues Potentially Evaluated in Environmental Impact Statement
- EIS Scoping Comments Received
- Locally Preferred Alternative Union Pacific Railroad (UPRR) Alternative
- Locally Preferred Alternative Union Pacific Railroad (UPRR) Alternative West and East Side Options
- Other Alternatives to be Evaluated in Draft EIS
- Stay Involved
- This is Your Red

Copies of the exhibit boards are in Appendix L.

6.2 Comments Received

Although this open house was not a formal comment period under the NEPA process,

● Open House Summary

people were provided opportunities to comment in writing during the open house or they could submit their comments after the open house via e-mail, fax, or postal letter. Comment cards distributed at the open house were designed to facilitate return of written comments both at the open house and via postal mail later. E-mail comments could be sent to a project specific e-mail address found on the project website. Approximately 13 people provided written comments at the open house and seven people provided comments via email. Comment cards received as of the date of this open house summary are included in Appendix J.

CTA and CWC Transit Group representatives received a variety of oral and written comments from participants during the open house. Overall there was no major opposition to the Red Line Extension. Several residents were eager to learn when the extension will become a reality. Here is an overview of comment themes:

- Inter-governmental planning – Residents want this project to remain a top priority and want to see more inter-governmental coordination.
- Real estate acquisitions – There was recognition that the project may affect residential parcels. Residents were interested in receiving information about the potential schedule for such acquisitions.
- Park impacts – Residents wanted to know if other parks will be added to the community if parks near the extension would be affected.
- Timeline – Community members wanted to know when construction would start so that they can be prepared for disruptions. They expressed concern that the longer the project takes to come to fruition, the less involved the community will be in providing feedback.
- Halsted Alternative – Members of Developing Communities Project wanted to know why the CTA was still considering this alternative. Other community members wanted to know why the CTA didn't choose the Halsted Alternative as the LPA.
- Hours of operation – Several attendees were concerned that the extended Red Line might not be available for 2nd and 3rd shift workers, and that the hours would not align with the schedules for connecting buses.
- CTA bus reroutes – Several attendees wanted to know where the affected buses would terminate once the Red Line is extended.
- Park & Ride lots – Residents would like to see more parking along the Red Line Extension.
- 130th street terminal – Participants mentioned that people travel beyond 130th Street, and expressed interest in extending the Red Line further south.
- Minority contractors – Residents wanted to make sure that local minority contractors would be considered once construction begins.
- Funding – Community members wanted to know how the CTA will fund the extension and if fares will be raised.
- Duplication of services – Some community members mentioned that Metra, Northern Indiana Commuter Transportation District, and PACE provide adequate service to the area.
- Gray Line – A suggestion was made to use Metra tracks and Highliner trains during non-rush hour periods and offer CTA-style "L" service; the Gray Line proposal was mentioned as an option because population along the Red Line Extension is low.

● Open House Summary

- High-speed electric trolley bus – Some participants suggested a high-speed electric trolley bus down Eggleston Avenue.
- Noise and vibration – Many residents were concerned about extra noise and vibration.
- Summer temperatures – Some participants said it was too hot for senior citizens to be out at an open house (temperatures on the day of the open house were in the upper 90s).

Ghost bikes haunt city sidewalks

Critic says memorials set up for dead cyclists become eyesores over time

BY KARA SPAK

Staff Reporter/kspak@suntimes.com

Almost every day for the last 16 months, Ed Hooks has walked his dog Nugget past a painted white bike at the entrance to the North Side's Kosciuszko Park.

It's a memorial for Jepson Livingston, a 32-year-old man who died in 2009. Livingston was riding his bike on Diversey when he was struck by a van involved in a high-speed chase. The driver was arrested and charged with murder.

Hooks feels for Livingston's family — he also lost a child too young. But he also believes there should be a time limit for memorials on public property, like the so-called "ghost bikes," which he considers an unnecessary eyesore after spending countless months or even years in Chicago weather.

"I grieve for them," he said of Livingston's family. "I grieve with them. That has nothing to do with whether or not a painted white bicycle should be chained to a light post forever in my neighborhood. At a certain point, the family needs to go to the cemetery."

But for Livingston's family, the bike remains a source of comfort.

"When I go by the bike, I feel more at peace compared to the cemetery," said Henrietta Livingston, Jepson Livingston's mother.

The urban equivalent of flower-strewn crosses along rural highways, there are about a dozen ghost bikes on sidewalks around Chicago. Painted white and bearing a sign with the name of the dead cyclist, the bikes are meant to serve as a memorial and a warning for drivers and cyclists.

Ghost bikes meet the criteria of Chicago's code for abandoned bikes. Purposefully stripped of parts, they cannot be ridden. They have not been moved in seven days — one ghost bike has been on Western since 2006. City code says abandoned bikes can be ticketed and then disposed of.

But Brian Steele, spokesman for Chicago's Department of Transportation, said the city doesn't move ghost bikes because officials don't consider them abandoned but "important memorials."

"If they do not infringe on the public way, or take up space that would be used by bicycles or pedestrians, [they] can be an important reminder of the impact on loved ones and our society when the rules are not followed by all modes, including the cyclists," Steele said in an e-mail.

For Hooks, a gentle-speaking 65-year-old teacher, author and former actor, the bikes are a legitimate memorial, just like those that appear outside fatal crime scenes featuring candles and stuffed animals. The difference is that the crime memorials are short-lived, he said.

"I would not object to these ghost bikes being there," he said. "I just think they should have an expiration date."

His request for an honest neighborhood discussion about the issue at the website Everyblock led to anonymous cyclists calling him everything from insensitive to a bigot. He said he isn't either, and has learned the hard way what the death of a child is like. His daughter Dagny was 21 when she accidentally overdosed on drugs in 2005 in Lake View.

"There is no closure for the death of a child," he said. "It's a crime against nature. Yet what's the lesson from my daughter's death — don't mess around with drugs. It didn't occur to me to go over [to Lake View] and put a sign up with her pictures and cover it with drug stuff and expect it to be there forever."

Ghost bikes started in 2002 in St. Louis by a bike shop worker. Since then, the bikes have appeared in 22 countries and, in America, 37 states.

In Chicago, the bikes are put up and maintained by concerned cyclists. Some ghost bikes are maintained more carefully than others.

In Boston, the bikes are typically taken down within days by the city, said James McBride of MassBikes, a Boston-based bicycle advocacy organization.

"Some of the shorter-term ghost bikes that stay up, I know people get upset they got moved quickly," he said.

Not all of the Chicago bikes are permanent. One placed near a West Side church was removed by church officials, said Howard Kaplan, who has helped install many ghost bikes. Another near a Walgreen's on the North Side also didn't stay up long, and a ghost bike at the Lincoln, Damen and Irving Park intersection has come and gone several times.

"When I work with the family [of the dead cyclist] to get one put up I tell them there's no guarantee for how long it's going to stay," he said. "If it's up for a year it's a good run."

Kaplan agrees with Hooks that there is no clear way to quantify how effective ghost bikes are as safety warnings. That doesn't mean that they are not valuable, he said.

"I think it's outrageous that you can't ride a bike around the city without risking your life," he said. "I think when a bicyclist is killed it should be noticed."

La misión de la OTAN en Afganistán empezó ayer oficialmente en la provincia central de Bamiyán la transferencia de competencias de seguridad a las autoridades locales, proceso que continuará en cinco zonas más del país durante la próxima semana.

La ceremonia formal de traspaso, celebrada este mediodía, contó con la presencia del máximo responsable de la misión de la OTAN en Afganistán, el general David Petraeus, y de los titulares afganos de Interior, Bismilá Mohamadi, y de Defensa, Abdul Rahim Wardak.

“Las fuerzas de seguridad afganas homejearon a los militares del contingente internacional por su servicio de los últimos diez años al pueblo de Afganistán y a este país asolado por la guerra”, explicó a EFE el portavoz afgano de Interior, Sediq Sediqi.

El acto tuvo lugar en el cuartel de la Policía afgana en la capital de una provincia relativamente libre de actividad insurgente pero que, paradójicamente, es uno de los símbolos del régimen talibán por la voladura de sus famosos Budas gigantes en 2001.

Los cerca de 200 militares de Nueva Zelanda -país representado en la ceremonia por su embajador- y la veintena de soldados de Singapur desplegados en Bamiyán serán los primeros miembros del contingente internacional en cambiar sus funciones.

“Los soldados extranjeros harán a partir de ahora trabajos de entrenamiento militar y de rehabilitación en la zona”, dijo el portavoz provincial, Abdul Rahman Ahmadi.

El traspaso de hoy responde al compromiso anunciado el pasado marzo por el presidente afgano, Hamid Karzai, de que las fuerzas afganas asumirían el control de siete áreas durante el mes de julio, en paralelo al inicio de la retirada de tropas de EEUU.

Durante la próxima semana se irán transfiriendo las competencias de otras cinco zonas: la provincia de Panjshir (este) y las ciudades de Mihtarlam (este), Lashkar Gah (sur), Herat (oeste) y Mazar-i Sharif (norte).

Sólo queda por determinar cuándo se hará el traspaso sobre la séptima de esas zonas, la estratégica provincia de Kabul.

“Seguramente se hará al final de esta primera fase de cesión de competencias, pero el Gobierno aún no ha tomado una decisión definitiva sobre la provincia de la capital”, dijo el portavoz del Ministerio de Interior.

El inicio de la transferencia en materia de seguridad llega apenas días después de que, el pasado miércoles, empezaran a salir del país los primeros 650 soldados estadounidenses, pertenecientes a dos regimientos estacionados hasta ahora cerca de Kabul.

EEUU prevé retirar este año 10 mil efectivos y 23 mil más hasta de septiembre de 2012, mientras que sus cerca de 70.000 soldados restantes abandonarán Afganistán entre 2013 y 2014.

Joe Taylor of Chilis said the company has responded to consumer demands for healthier foods. While diners looking for a healthier meal used to have to ask for substitutions, they now have more options.

"We've seen our guests customize

Patrick Lenow of IHOP said the restaurant will add two new children's menu items because of the effort, including pancakes with fruit

Bachmann, Pawlenty ramp up war of words

WASHINGTON — The campaigns of Republican presidential hopefuls Michele Bachmann and Tim Pawlenty resumed their war of words Sunday, arguing via press release over which candidate has the stronger conservative credentials.

Michele Bachmann

Tim Pawlenty

Minnesota Rep. Bachmann accused Pawlenty of supporting policies that are anathema to her Tea Party supporters, such as the mandate to buy health insurance and a "cap-and-trade" agreement to reduce greenhouse gases. And she slammed the former Minnesota governor for praising the federal government's 2008 bailouts.

"I have fought against irresponsible spending while Governor Pawlenty was leaving a multi-billion-dollar budget mess in Minnesota," Bachmann added.

Pawlenty's campaign swiftly rejected Bachmann's claims, saying there is "very little difference" between the two candidates' positions.

However, Pawlenty spokesman Alex Conant said, "The difference is that when Governor Pawlenty was scoring conservative victories . . . Congresswoman Bachmann was giving speeches and offering failed amendments, all while struggling mightily to hold onto the most Republican house seat in the state."

Pawlenty in July raised Bachmann's ire when he called her record of accomplishment

in Congress "nonexistent."

Bachmann argued again Sunday against that assessment, saying, "I have demonstrated leadership and the courage of my convictions to change Washington, stop wasteful spending, lower taxes, put Americans back to work and turn our economy around."

Elected Official Briefing Summaries

Meeting Notes

Date: July 21, 2011

Present: Alderman Anthony A. Beale, 9th Ward
George Coleman, CTA
Sonali Tandon, CTA
Jeffrey Sriver, Chicago Department of Transportation
Lisa Soard (note taker), CWC Transit Group

Time: 12:30 p.m.

Highlights:

CTA staff presented and left a seven-page packet of Red Line Extension materials. The materials and CTA representatives stressed that:

- Since the 95th Street Station is a highly used terminal and the area south of the Red Line has a need for more transit options, CTA is pursuing this extension.
- Better transit will spur economic revitalization along the current Red Line and the extension.
- Between 2006 and 2009, planners worked with the community to examine several options for placement of the extension. Based on those discussions and studies, the Union Pacific Railroad alternative was chosen as the Locally Preferred Alternative.
- The CTA is in the Environmental Impact Study (EIS) phase of the project as it collects information about how plans would affect the local community and the environment. The August 2nd Open House is part of the EIS phase.

The Chicago Department of Transportation representative added that CDOT would study if there is another way for Union Pacific trains to take a different route to the city, which would free the Union Pacific Railroad right-of-way for the Locally Preferred Alternative.

Overall Alderman Beale was supportive of the plans, and was hopeful that the money can be secured to build the extension.

He had questions and suggestions about the Red Line Extension.

- Affect on Parks and Housing

Alderman Beale asked if only parks would be reduced or if residential property also would be impacted.

- CTA responded that they didn't know what would truly be affected as far as housing, but that would be studied in the next part of the EIS.

- Environmental Impact Statement and Funding

He asked when the EIS would be completed and whether CTA had the funding it needed.

- CTA representatives said to move forward in the process they need to identify state, local and federal funds. They also mentioned that the August 2nd Open House would let the community know that CTA is still focused on the Red Line Extension project and that it is moving forward.

- Legislative Champions

Alderman Beale asked who was spearheading the efforts to obtain funding for the Red Line Extension in Washington D.C. He specifically asked if it was Representative Jesse L. Jackson, Jr. He stated that in his opinion funding for the project was a federal issue and that the project needed a Congressional champion.

Meeting Notes

Date: July 21, 2011

Present: Alderman Carrie M. Austin, 34th Ward
George Coleman, CTA
Sonali Tandon, CTA
Jeffrey Sriver, Chicago Department of Transportation
Lisa Soard (note taker), CWC Transit Group

Time: 1:05 p.m.

Highlights:

CTA staff presented and left a seven-page packet of Red Line Extension materials. The materials and CTA representatives stressed that:

- The August 2nd Open House will update the community about where CTA is in the process on the Red Line Extension project.
- The CTA completed the Alternatives Analysis phase and chose the Union Pacific Railroad alternative as its Locally Preferred Alternative based on community input. Scoping meetings were hosted in September 2009 to initiate the Environmental Impact Study (EIS) phase.
- The project is in the EIS phase. In this phase, the effect of plans on the local community and the environment would be studied. However in order to continue, CTA needs funding for the Draft EIS and for construction and operation.

The Chicago Department of Transportation representative added that the Union Pacific Railroad is requesting a 50-foot separation between the tracks. He said that CDOT would study if there is another way for Union Pacific trains to take a different route to the city, which would free the Union Pacific Railroad right-of-way for the Locally Preferred Alternative.

Overall Alderman Austin is supportive of the plans and is thinking about the long term and wants to leave a legacy for the residents of her ward. She also said that she knows her State Representative and Senator support the project.

Alderman Austin had questions and suggestions about the Red Line Extension.

- Elected Officials

Alderman Austin asked if the CTA had reached out to U.S. Representative Bobby Lee Rush. She also suggested that the CTA contact Andrew J. Mooney, Commissioner of the City of Chicago Department of Housing and Economic Development.

- CTA responded by saying they would consider reaching out to Representative Rush and Commissioner Mooney.

- Effect on Parks

While looking at the map of the LPA, Alderman Austin asked if any park land would be taken with the extension.

- CTA representatives said that the purpose of the EIS is to research how parks would be affected and that several parks could be impacted.

- Metra Modernization

Alderman Austin also asked if Metra had any plans to modernize its Kensington Station. She said she was only asking for fresh paint, better lighting, and new signage. Austin wants to make sure that Metra stations are consistent with the potential new Red Line Extension stations.

- The Chicago Department of Transportation representative answered this question by saying that an elevator was installed at the Kensington Metra station more than 10 years ago and he would convey Austin's request to Metra.

Meeting Notes

Date: July 27, 2011

Present: Alderman Howard B. Brookins, Jr., 21st Ward
Curtis V. Thompson, Jr., chief of staff, Alderman Brookins, Jr.
Sonali Tandon, CTA
George Coleman, CTA
Lisa Soard (note taker), CWC Transit Group

Time: 12:12 p.m.

Highlights:

CTA staff presented and left a seven-page packet about the proposed Red Line Extension (RLE). The materials and CTA representatives stressed that:

- This extension is part of "Your Red," which also includes Dan Ryan Track Renewal and the North Red and Purple Modernization projects.
- CTA is partnering with the Federal Transit Administration on the extension.
- The extension will help South Side residents save 20 minutes on their commute from 130th Street to downtown and reduce the need for transfers.
- All four proposed stations would have park and ride facilities. The extension would be elevated from 99th Street to 119th Street and after that it would be at-grade.
- Between 2006 and 2009, planners worked with the community to examine several options for alignment of the extension. Based on those discussions and studies, the Union Pacific Railroad (UPRR) alternative was chosen as the Locally Preferred Alternative (LPA).
- The CTA is in the Environmental Impact Study (EIS) phase of the project which will examine at least four alternatives and collect information about how plans would affect local community members and the environment. The August 2nd Open House is part of the EIS phase.
- Funding for the EIS was announced Monday by Senator Richard Durbin. CTA still needs funding for construction and operation of the extension.

Overall Alderman Brookins and his chief of staff, Mr. Thompson, were supportive of the plans and felt that it would have minimal impact on the 21st Ward. Alderman Brookins mentioned that he would have preferred the Halsted alternative and appreciates that it is still being considered during the EIS.

Alderman Brookins and Mr. Thompson had questions and suggestions about the Red Line Extension.

- Safety

Mr. Thompson asked how far the students from Carver Military Academy would have to walk to the proposed 130th Street Station. He said a lot can happen between the school and the station.

- CTA responded that the distance would likely be ½ mile to one mile from the proposed station to Carver Military Academy.

- Quiet Zones

Mr. Thompson mentioned to CTA that the 21st Ward was pursuing to be a quiet zone and asked whether a CTA train would be quieter than or as noisy as a Union Pacific train.

- CTA replied that the City of Chicago Department of Transportation (CDOT) is initiating a quiet zone study in the area, and that CDOT also is working with Union Pacific to study if Union Pacific trains could be rerouted.

- Timeline

Alderman Brookins asked when they could expect the RLE to be complete and operating.

- CTA mentioned that it typically takes two to three years to finish the EIS, and if everything is in place (funding and federal approval) it could be seven to eight years from now, at the earliest, that the RLE could begin operating.

- Effect on Housing

Alderman Brookins wanted to know whether homes would be demolished when the extension becomes a reality.

- CTA said that some homes might be affected and explained that whether houses will be affected or not depends on conversations with Union Pacific. CTA also stated that it will work with Union Pacific to discuss issues, such as the Union Pacific's need to have 50 feet of clearance between its track and the CTA track.

- Economic Development

Alderman Brookins asked whether there would be an opportunity for businesses to locate near the station.

- CTA responded that it would consider retail space, but that it was too early in the process to say anything specific.

Meeting Notes

Date: July 25, 2011

Present: Alderman Roderick Sawyer, 6th Ward
George Coleman, CTA
Sonali Tandon, CTA
Lisa Soard (note taker), CWC Transit Group

Time: 1:57 p.m.

Highlights:

CTA staff presented and left a seven-page packet of Red Line Extension materials. The materials and CTA representatives stressed that:

- This extension is part of "Your Red," which also includes Dan Ryan Track Renewal and the North Red and Purple Modernization projects.
- The extension will begin at the 95th Street Station and either terminate just north of 130th Street or east of Altgeld Gardens. It also will help South Side residents save 20 minutes on their commute from 130th Street to downtown and reduce the need for transfers.
- All four proposed stations would have park and ride facilities. No park and ride lot would be added to the 95th Street Station. The extension would be elevated from 99th Street to 119th Street and after that it would be at-grade.
- Between 2006 and 2009, planners worked with the community to examine several options for alignment of the extension. Based on those discussions and studies, the Union Pacific Railroad alternative was chosen as the Locally Preferred Alternative (LPA).
- The CTA is in the Environmental Impact Study (EIS) phase of the project as it collects information about how plans would affect local community members and the environment. The August 2nd Open House is part of the EIS phase and will allow community members to have informal discussions with CTA representatives about the proposed extension.

- Funding for the EIS was announced this morning by Senator Richard Durbin. CTA still needs funding for construction and operation of the extension.

Overall Alderman Sawyer is supportive of the plans. He said that the South Side is long overdue for better access to public transportation and he is happy to see that plans are moving forward. Alderman Sawyer is most interested in what is happening at the 95th Street Station and the Dan Ryan Track Renewal project because they are in his ward.

Alderman Sawyer had questions and suggestions about the Red Line Extension.

- Train Stations

He mentioned that the 95th Street Station is a huge hub that needs improvements. He also said that there is a desire in the community to see the Red Line stops in his ward modernized. He asked about whether CTA was considering making improvements to the stops in his ward (69th, 79th, 87th, and 95th streets).

- CTA responded that one of the alternatives was expanding the 95th Street Station and improving bus service. CTA said that it would like to walk through the four stations with him to hear about what he and the community would like improved. CTA also would like to talk with him about the new adopt-a-station program.

- Next Steps

He wanted to know when the EIS would be complete and what funding CTA had or needs to move forward with the extension.

- CTA replied that in order to construct and operate the RLE it needs to have funding in place and would need federal approvals. CTA also mentioned that it would take two to three years to finish the EIS, and if everything is in place it could be seven to eight years from now, at the earliest, that the RLE could be operating.

- Economic Development

He asked if there would be opportunities for local contractors to get involved with the construction of the RLE. He also wants to make sure that retailers can locate near the stations. He explained that he couldn't even buy a newspaper by the 69th Street Station.

- CTA representatives said that local contractors would be considered during the construction phase and that it would consider retail possibilities.

Meeting Notes

Date: July 27, 2011

Present: Cook County Commissioner Joan Patricia Murphy, 6th District
Sonali Tandon, CTA
Maria-Teresa Roman, CTA
Lisa Soard (note taker), CWC Transit Group

Time: 3:10 p.m.

Highlights:

CTA staff presented and left a seven-page packet about the proposed Red Line Extension (RLE). The materials and CTA representatives stressed that:

- This extension is part of "Your Red," which also includes Dan Ryan Track Renewal and the North Red and Purple Modernization projects.
- CTA is partnering with the Federal Transit Administration on the extension.

- Funding for the EIS was announced Monday by Senator Richard Durbin. CTA still needs funding for construction and operation of the extension.

Commissioner Murphy is in favor of the extension and mentioned she is happy to help however she can at the county level. Murphy knows a lot about transportation and supports high-speed rail to and from Chicago. Murphy had questions and suggestions about the Red Line Extension.

- Union Pacific Railroad

Commissioner Murphy asked how CTA is working with Union Pacific because she knew of a high-speed rail plan that also relied on using the Union Pacific Railroad right-of-way. She suggested that perhaps the high-speed rail could be above ground and the RLE could be below ground. She also said that she thought Union Pacific had 600 feet of right-of-way, which led her to inquire about how much space CTA needs for its track and platforms.

- CTA said that it prefers the UPRR alternative, and is working with Union Pacific to discuss issues, such as the Union Pacific's need to have 50 feet of clearance between its track and the CTA track. The CTA representative told Murphy she would have to get back to Murphy about how much space CTA would need for its track and platforms.

- Safety

Commissioner Murphy voiced her concern about keeping people and property safe if the RLE ends near Altgeld Gardens. She asked if the terminal station could be moved further east or west. She also suggested a paid monthly pass to park in a fenced, secure lot near the terminal.

- CTA responded that safety is a top priority and that part of the EIS would review safety.

- 130th Street Terminal

Commissioner Murphy questioned why CTA was stopping the RLE at 130th and why CTA wouldn't take the extension further south.

- CTA said that the extension stops at the city's southern border, which is 130th Street. The CTA staff also explained that south of 130th is a forest preserve. In order to justify extending the line south of 130th, CTA would have to go all the way to 159th Street where there is more population density.

The Red Line Extension (RLE) meeting was preceded by a discussion about general environmental issues that included a mention of the RLE. More focused discussions on RLE followed as described below.

Highlights:

CTA staff showed a seven-slide PowerPoint presentation and a map of the proposed RLE. The presentation and CTA representatives stressed that:

- This extension is part of the “Your Red” Program, which also includes Dan Ryan Track Renewal and the North Red and Purple Modernization projects.
- Since the 95th Street Station is a highly used terminal and the area south of the Red Line has a need for more transit options, CTA is pursuing this extension.

* The “X” means we were unable to obtain the last name of the participant.

- Better transit would spur economic revitalization along the current Red Line and the extension.
- The extension will begin at the 95th Street Station and either terminate just north of 130th Street or east of Altgeld Gardens. It also will help South Side residents save 20 minutes on their commute from 130th Street to downtown and reduce the need for transfers.
- Between 2006 and 2009, CTA worked with the community to examine several options for placement of the extension. Based on those discussions and studies, the Union Pacific Railroad alternative was chosen as the Locally Preferred Alternative (LPA).
- The CTA is in the Environmental Impact Study (EIS) phase of the project as it collects information about how plans would affect local community and the environment. The August 2nd Open House is part of the EIS phase.

Overall DCP is supportive of the plans. The organization reminded CTA that it has been working on this extension for about 20 years. They see that the CTA's transportation projects are being compared to other projects in major U.S. cities, and they want to make sure CTA stays on schedule and doesn't fall behind other cities. They also want to know what they can do to help CTA move the Red Line Extension forward and want to keep the community motivated to help this process.

DCP had questions and suggestions about the Red Line Extension.

- Elevation

DCP asked if the whole extension will be elevated.

- CTA responded that only part of it would be elevated up to 119th Street, after which it will become at-grade. CTA clarified that three of the four proposed new stations would be elevated and the terminal station at 130th would be at-grade.

- Affect on Parks and Housing

DCP expressed concern about park land being taken for the extension and explained that the portions that would be impacted are used by families for picnics. DCP would like to work with CTA and the community to see where new green space could be found.

- CTA representatives said that ideally CTA would like to operate in the existing railroad right-of-way, and will work with the railroad to minimize impacts to parks and homes.

- Union Pacific Railroad

A DCP representative wanted to know if CTA was talking to the Union Pacific about the UPRR alternative.

- CTA said that it has had some conversations with Union Pacific and that those conversations are ongoing.

- Alternatives

In addition to asking for a reminder about the different alternatives to consider during the EIS, DCP also asked why other alternatives were still being considered when the CTA and the community had already chosen the UPRR as the LPA. DCP also reminded the CTA that noise is a concern and that they particularly supported the UPRR alternative because the noise wouldn't be as bad in its opinion.

- CTA described each of the three other alternatives: No Build, Transportation System Management, and Halsted Street. CTA representatives also reminded DCP that each of the proposed new stations would include park and ride lots and bus transfer facilities. To answer the question about why other alternatives are still being considered, CTA said that it is required by the Federal Transit Administration (FTA).

- Funding for EIS

DCP wanted to know when the EIS would be complete and what funding CTA had to move forward with the extension. They also asked how much money would be needed to complete the EIS.

- CTA responded that in order to go any further they needed funds to prepare the Draft EIS and identify funds for construction and operation. CTA said it would continue to work with FTA and elected officials to identify funds. The August 2nd Open House is planned so that residents can see the results from the first scoping meeting and see that CTA is moving forward. CTA said that they would need $3 million to $5 million to complete the EIS and approximately $30 million to finish preliminary engineering. CTA also mentioned that it would take two to three years to finish the EIS.

- Livable Communities Grant

DCP asked whether the CTA was working with CMAP to pass a city ordinance that would give CTA $1 million of a $4.25 million grant from CMAP to study the Red Line Extension. DCP seemed confident that this ordinance would move forward and said they testified at the July 15th CTA Board meeting about the ordinance.

- CTA representatives said they were unfamiliar with the ordinance, but they would look into it and continue to work with other partners for funding.

- Your Red

There was a concern among DCP representatives that several projects were getting piled into one program – “Your Red” – and that may slow down the Red Line Extension.

- CTA responded that there are three separate projects and that the Red Line Extension is following the New Starts process.

- Open House

DCP asked if there was anything they could do during the Open House to help move the process forward.

- CTA said that the comments received from the community during the Open House will be considered when drafting the EIS.

Meeting Notes

Date: July 26, 2011

Present: Ledall Edwards, Executive Director, Roseland Business Development Council
George Coleman, CTA
Sonali Tandon, CTA
Lisa Soard (note taker), CWC Transit Group

Time: 10:20 a.m.

Highlights:

CTA staff presented a seven-page packet about the proposed Red Line Extension. The materials and CTA representatives stressed that:

- This extension is part of "Your Red," which also includes the Dan Ryan Track Renewal and the North Red and Purple Modernization projects. In addition, any improvements made to one part of the Red Line help the entire line.
- The extension will begin at the 95th Street Station and terminate either just north of 130th Street or east of Altgeld Gardens. It also will help South Side residents save 20 minutes on their commute from 130th Street to downtown and reduce the need for transfers.
- All four proposed stations would have park and ride facilities. The extension would be elevated from 99th Street to 119th Street and after that it would be at-grade.
- Between 2006 and 2009, planners worked with the community to examine several options for alignment of the extension. Based on those discussions and studies, the Union Pacific Railroad (UPRR) alternative was chosen as the Locally Preferred Alternative (LPA).
- The CTA is in the Environmental Impact Study (EIS) phase of the project as it examines four alternatives and collects information about how plans would affect local community members and the environment. The August 2nd Open House is part of the EIS phase.
- Funding for the EIS was announced yesterday by Senator Richard Durbin. CTA still needs funding for construction and operation of the extension.

Overall Mr. Edwards and the Roseland Business Development Council (RBDC) are supportive of the plans. He suggested that CTA come back during RBDC's next quarterly meeting to give all members an update. Edwards had questions and suggestions about the Red Line Extension.

- Community Support

Mr. Edwards asked if the CTA had community support for this extension. He also mentioned that he has been hearing some concerns about noise from the community.

- CTA affirmed that the community supports this extension, particularly the UPRR alternative because it goes to Altgeld Gardens. CTA said that it is working with UPRR to discuss issues, such as the UPRR's need to have 50 feet of clearance between its track and the CTA track. CTA responded to the noise concern by reminding Mr. Edwards that it will be looking at noise impacts during the EIS.

- Funding

He asked if CTA anticipated having problems getting the funding needed to make this extension a reality.

- CTA said that identifying funding will be a challenge. CTA also explained that in order to construct and operate the RLE, the CTA will need to have funding in place first, and then the project would need federal approval.

- Economic Development

Mr. Edwards asked about the look of the 115th Street Station, since that would be closest to his business. He asked if it would mirror the 95th Street Station. He wanted to make sure there would be an opportunity for businesses to locate near the station so that passengers might go even further to the retail strip and his business on South Michigan Avenue.

- CTA responded that it would consider retail space, but that it was too early in the process to say anything specific. CTA also said that all new stations would have park and ride lots.

- Timeline

He also asked about when to expect the RLE to be up and operating.

- CTA mentioned that it could take two to three years to finish the EIS, and if everything is in place (funding and federal approval) it could be seven to eight years from now, at the earliest, that the RLE could be operating.

- Effect on Environment and Housing

Mr. Edwards wanted to know how the RLE would impact the environment, and if any homes would be demolished.

- CTA said that some parks might be affected, as well as homes. CTA explained that whether houses will be affected depends on conversations with UPRR. And, CTA officials reminded Mr. Edwards effects to historical properties will be analyzed during the EIS.

Meeting Notes

Date: August 8, 2011

Present: Representative Cynthia Soto, 4th District
Joe Iacobucci, CTA
Sonali Tandon, CTA
Deborah Lopez, CTA
Lisa Soard (note taker), CWC Transit Group

Time: 8:53 a.m.

Highlights:

CTA staff presented information about the Red Line Extension (RLE) and left a seven-page packet for Representative Soto to reference, as needed. CTA representatives emphasized that:

- This extension is part of "Your Red," which also includes Dan Ryan Track Renewal and the North Red and Purple Modernization (RPM) projects.
- The extension will begin at the 95th Street Station and terminate either just north of 130th Street or east of Altgeld Gardens. It will help South Side residents save about 20 minutes on their commute from 130th Street to downtown and reduce the need for transfers.
- All four proposed stations would have park and ride facilities. The extension would be elevated from 99th Street to 119th Street and after that it would be at-grade.
- Between 2006 and 2009, planners worked through the Alternatives Analysis process. Based on discussions with the community and studies, the Union Pacific Railroad alternative was chosen as the Locally Preferred Alternative (LPA).
- Although Senator Durbin recently announced federal money to complete the EIS for the RLE and RPM projects, CTA would still need federal, state, and local funds for design and construction of the RLE.
- The CTA is in the Environmental Impact Study (EIS) phase of the project as it collects information about how plans would affect residents and the environment. CTA conducted an Open House on August 2nd to allow community members to ask CTA representatives about the proposed extension.

Representative Soto said CTA is doing good things and that she likes this project. She appreciated that CTA came out to brief her, but mentioned that she felt CTA should be doing more advertising and community events to raise awareness about this project. She also said she hoped that minority participation in construction would be high.

Representative Soto had questions and suggestions about the Red Line Extension.

- 130th Street Terminal

Representative Soto asked if CTA had future plans to extend the Red Line beyond 130th Street.

- CTA said that it would need to go through another EIS process before it considered extending beyond 130th Street, and that it had to get the RLE approved and built first.

- Timing and Funding

Representative Soto wanted to know how long the CTA had been working on the RLE. She also asked about whether any of the federal money for high speed rail could be used for the RLE, whether CTA got any capital dollars, and how much CTA would need to complete the RLE. She emphasized that she would be meeting with Transportation Secretary Ray LaHood soon, which could help inform where funding should be directed.

- CTA replied that it had been working on the RLE since 2006. CTA stated that no federal money for high speed rail could be used on this project, but that the RLE was going through the “New Starts” funding process for new rail projects. CTA answered that it had received some capital funds, but those were to keep the existing system in a state of good repair, and would not address the RLE. CTA also said that its original 2009 estimate to complete the RLE was $1.1 billion, but that will likely rise with inflation.

- Feasibility

Representative Soto asked if CTA had completed a feasibility study for the RLE.

- CTA explained that a preliminary feasibility study was completed as part of the Alternatives Analysis phase, and that a more comprehensive feasibility study would be part of the next steps in the preliminary engineering phase.

Present: Rick Bryant, Chief of Staff, Representative Jesse Jackson, Jr., 2nd District
Joe Iacobucci, CTA
Michael McLaughlin, CTA
Deborah Lopez, CTA
Lisa Soard (note taker), CWC Transit Group

Time: 10:40 a.m.

Highlights:

CTA staff presented and left a seven-page packet of Red Line Extension (RLE) materials. The materials and CTA representatives stressed that:

- This extension is part of "Your Red," which also includes Dan Ryan Track Renewal and the North Red and Purple Modernization (RPM) projects.
- The CTA is taking a balanced approach to the Red Line; roughly half the money announced by Sen. Durbin recently will go to the EIS for the RLE and half to RPM.
- The CTA is partnering with the Federal Transit Administration (FTA) on the RLE.
- The extension will begin at the 95th Street Station and terminate either just north of 130th Street or east of Altgeld Gardens. It also will help South Side residents save 20 minutes on their commute from 130th Street to downtown and reduce the need for transfers.
- All four proposed stations would have park and ride facilities. The extension would be elevated from 99th Street to 119th Street and after that it would be at-grade.
- Between 2006 and 2009, planners worked through the Alternatives Analysis process. Based on discussions with the community and studies, the Union Pacific Railroad alternative was chosen as the Locally Preferred Alternative (LPA).
- The CTA is in the Environmental Impact Study (EIS) phase of the project which will collect information about how plans would affect local community members and the environment. The August 2nd Open House is part of the EIS phase and will allow community members to ask CTA representatives about the proposed extension.

Mr. Bryant said CTA is doing good work and that he has been impressed with the CTA's commitment to this project. Mr. Bryant also said he and Representative Jackson, Jr., will support the community's decision for the LPA. Mr. Bryant had questions and suggestions about the Red Line Extension.

- Union Pacific

Mr. Bryant asked if CTA and the Chicago Department of Transportation were able to work with the UP to vacate its track or move to the Canadian National line, would the CTA use the UP's track?

- CTA said that it would still build an elevated track. CTA also said that it would continue to work with the UP because the UP has several concerns. For example, the UP may consider adding a third track, and the UP wants to make sure that it doesn't lose income because this line is its main line to Texas.

- Timing and Funding

He wanted to know when the EIS would be complete and what funding CTA had or needs to move forward with the extension.

- CTA replied that in order to construct and operate the RLE it needed to have full funding in place and would need federal approval. CTA representatives said that they were looking at a state match and an operating subsidy. CTA also mentioned that it could take two to three years to finish the EIS, and if everything is in place it could be seven to eight years from now, at the earliest, that the RLE could be operating.

- Halsted Alternative

Mr. Bryant asked about the Halsted Alternative and whether it would be elevated.

- CTA explained that it would be elevated and that it scored just as well as the Union Pacific Railroad right-of-way. CTA is keeping the Halsted Alternative in the EIS for comparison purposes and to meet FTA requirements.

Meeting Notes

Date: July 20, 2011

Present: Representative Monique Davis, 27th District
Deborah Lopez, CTA
Sonali Tandon, CTA

Karen Huelsman (note taker), CWC Transit Group

Time: Noon

Highlights:

CTA staff presented and left a seven-page packet of Red Line Extension materials. The materials and CTA representatives stressed that:

- Since the 95th Street Station is a highly used terminal and the area south of the Red Line has a need for more transit options, CTA is pursuing this extension.
- Better transit will spur economic revitalization along the current Red Line and the extension.
- Between 2006 and 2009, planners worked with the community to examine several options for placement of the extension. Based on those discussions and studies, the Union Pacific Railroad alternative, was chosen as the Locally Preferred Alternative.
- The CTA is in the Environmental Impact Study (EIS) phase of the project as it collects information about how plans would affect the local community and the environment. The August 2nd Open House is part of the EIS phase.

Overall Representative Davis was supportive of the plans, and was hopeful that the money can be secured to build the extension. Since the state government will have to contribute a portion of the funding, she noted that there is a lot of work ahead.

Representative Davis had questions and suggestions about the Red Line Extension.

- Safety

She said one of her biggest concerns is that people feel safe riding the train. She suggested looking at what other cities do to address these concerns.

- CTA answered that security personnel and cameras could address safety concerns.

- Community Involvement

She said many in her district feel forgotten when it comes to transit. She also stressed the need for keeping the community informed through every step.

- CTA representatives said this extension is in direct response to the need for more transit options south of 95th Street. If the extension is built, it would eliminate the need for time-consuming transfers. Transit riders traveling from the proposed 130th Street terminal to the Loop would save about 20 minutes.

- Affect on Housing

She was optimistic that the community would support the plan as long as the disruption to housing was minimal and that elevated tracks would not be placed over existing homes in the area. In addition, she was concerned about toxic train emissions too close to housing. A resident also was concerned if the extension would serve residents of Altgeld Gardens. The resident also asked where tracks would be placed in relation to existing structures.

- CTA representatives responded that the extension would serve Altgeld Gardens and that ideally CTA would like to operate in the existing railroad right-of-way, and will work with the railroad to minimize effects on residents.

Sean J. Murray, chief of staff, Senator Sandoval
Sonali Tandon, CTA
Joe Iacobucci, CTA

Time: 1:05 p.m.

Highlights:

CTA staff presented and left a seven-page packet of Red Line Extension (RLE) materials. The materials and CTA representatives stressed that:

- This extension is part of "Your Red," which also includes Dan Ryan Track Renewal and the North Red and Purple Modernization (RPM) projects; and that when improvements are made to one part of the line it helps the whole line.
- The CTA is partnering with the Federal Transit Administration (FTA) on the RLE.
- The extension will begin at the 95th Street Station and terminate either just north of 130th Street or east of Altgeld Gardens. It also will help South Side residents save 20 minutes from 130th Street on their commute to downtown and reduce the need for transfers.
- All four proposed stations would have park and ride facilities. The extension would be elevated from 99th Street to 119th Street and after that it would be at-grade.
- Between 2006 and 2009, planners worked through the Alternatives Analysis process. Based on discussions with the community and studies, the Union Pacific Railroad (UPRR) alternative was chosen as the Locally Preferred Alternative (LPA).
- The CTA is in the Environmental Impact Study (EIS) phase of the project which will collect information about how plans would affect local community members and the environment. The August 2nd Open House is part of the EIS phase and will allow community members to ask CTA representatives about the proposed extension.

Senator Sandoval was pleased to see progress on the RLE. He said people are really getting excited about this extension and that CTA and its supporters need to get the federal government to help move this forward. He also mentioned that he would try to get to the open house and asked to keep getting briefings as this process moves forward.

- 130th Street Terminal

Senator Sandoval mentioned that the unions have asked him if the CTA is considering extending the Red Line beyond 130th Street. The unions seem to think there is a greater ridership at 159th Street.

- CTA representatives explained that the “New Starts” process, which is the process the CTA is going through for the RLE, is very competitive and that the projects considered need to be cost effective. The CTA staff also said that south of 130th is a forest preserve, which is low density for ridership. In order to justify extending the line south of 130th, CTA would have to go to where there is more population density.

- Timing and Funding

He wanted to know when the EIS would be complete and what funding CTA had or needs to move forward with the extension. Senator Sandoval also asked how much the CTA got from the federal government, which Senator Durbin announced recently.

- CTA replied that in order to construct and operate the RLE it needed to have full funding in place first and then it would need federal approval. CTA representatives said that they were looking at a 50/50 federal-local match, which could be a combination of city and state funding.

CTA also mentioned that it could take two to three years to finish the EIS. After the EIS, CTA would focus on engineering and design, and if everything (including funding) is in place it could be seven to eight years from now, at the earliest, that the RLE could be operating.

Additionally, CTA explained that roughly half the money announced by Senator Durbin recently will go to the EIS for the RLE (approximately $3 million) and half to RPM. CTA added that it would cost about $1.4 billion to construct RLE.

- City Elected Official Support

Senator Sandoval asked who the transportation chair was at the city level and whether that person had hearings on the RLE. He also asked about the wards that the RLE would go through and whether the aldermen supported it. In addition, he asked if the CTA chairman and president, and Chicago’s new mayor were aggressively seeking funding. He followed that up by asking if the mayor had transportation in his transition report.

- CTA said that the transportation chair was Alderman Anthony Beale and that he hadn’t hosted hearings yet. CTA also said that they had briefed all of the aldermen who would have the RLE in their wards and that all have voiced support. CTA affirmed that the CTA chairman and president, and Mayor Emanuel were aggressively seeking funding for the RLE, and that transportation was in the transition report.

- Effect on Property and Environment

Sandoval asked about the impact on the environment and whether any housing would be affected.

- CTA replied that the UPRR alternative could have minimal impacts on property and some impact on parks; the impacts would be evaluated in EIS. CTA also said that it is working with the Union Pacific because the UP has requested a 50-foot buffer between its tracks and the extension.

Meeting Notes

Date: July 20, 2011

Present: Senator Emil Jones III, 14th District
Deborah Lopez, CTA
Sonali Tandon, CTA
Karen Huelsman (note taker), CWC Transit Group

Time: 1:40 p.m.

Highlights:

CTA staff presented and left a seven-page packet of Red Line Extension materials. The materials and CTA representatives stressed that:

- Since the 95th Street Station is a highly used terminal and the area south of the Red Line has a need for more transit options, CTA is pursuing this extension.
- Better transit will spur economic revitalization along the current Red Line and the extension.
- Four new transit stations with parking facilities are planned for the extension.
- Between 2006 and 2009, planners worked with the community to examine several options for placement of the extension. Based on those discussions and studies, the Union Pacific Railroad alternative was chosen as the Locally Preferred Alternative.
- The CTA is in the Environmental Impact Study (EIS) phase of the project as it collects information about how plans would affect the local community and the environment. The Aug. 2 Open House is part of the EIS phase.

Senator Jones was very supportive of the proposal, saying, "We want to get this done." He said that he was planning to attend the Open House on Aug. 2.

He had questions and suggestions about the Red Line Extension.

- Park Land and Homes that Would be Affected

He expressed concern that the community would be reluctant to give up any park space for more transit tracks. He also mentioned that if housing would need to be razed then that could be a challenge to the community.

- Within the locally preferred option, the CTA pointed out that different parks would be affected depending on whether the CTA tracks were built East or West of the Union Pacific Railroad's existing tracks. Likewise, different housing units could be affected. Ideally CTA would like to operate in the existing railroad right-of-way, and will work with the railroad to minimize land acquisition.

- Length of Time for Completion and Costs

Senator Jones said that he and his community have been waiting a long time for more transit, and that he was unaware completion could be eight years away. His biggest funding concern, upon hearing the project could cost $1.1 billion, was coming up with the state's portion of the funding. But he was optimistic about the CTA being able to secure the funding and that he had already talked with Gov. Quinn about supporting the project.

- CTA explained that the proposed extension would require federal, state and local funding.

- How This Would Help Commuters

Senator Jones was pleased that transit riders would not have to make any transfers to travel from 130th Street to the Loop, and that the extension would reduce about 20 minutes off that trip.

- CTA staff pointed out that reduced commuting time would make travel more convenient for those who have jobs or are looking for jobs downtown. Coupled with the park and ride facilities, the project would be an economic booster for local businesses along the line as well.

Re: CTA Red Line Extension Environmental Review Process Update

Dear [Agency Representative]:

The Federal Transit Administration (FTA), in cooperation with the Chicago Transit Authority (CTA), has completed scoping in preparation for the development of an Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) for the proposed Red Line Extension project. This project would extend the Red Line, a rail transit line, 5.3 miles from its existing 95th Street Station to a new terminal station at 130th Street. Future project development is subject to available funding.

CTA will be hosting an open house on August 2, 2011 from 6:00 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. at St. John Missionary Baptist Church, 211 E. 115th Street, Chicago, IL to update the community on the results of the scoping process and on project progress. Your agency is cordially invited to attend this update meeting. CTA continues to receive feedback on the project and potential effects which will be addressed in the Draft EIS. The meeting format will be an open exchange of information between the attendees and CTA staff. There will be no formal presentation or testimony.

The EIS scoping process included an agency scoping meeting on September 24, 2009 and two public scoping meetings on September 22, 2009, and September 24, 2009. The scoping comment period ran from September 1 to October 27, 2009. Input received on the project from both agencies and the public is summarized in the scoping report dated June 2010. Agencies, community groups, members of the public, elected officials, and other interested parties submitted 316 letters, e-mails, and comment cards, and 28 individuals provided oral testimony during this period. The scoping report can be accessed at <http://www.transitchicago.com/Redeis/documents.aspx>.

The comments that were received will be used to guide the analysis in the Draft EIS. Preliminary evaluations have also identified potential issues that will likely require coordination and further study regarding parks, utilities, I-94 and I-57, and acquisitions.

As the project moves forward and the Draft EIS is developed, as a participating agency, you may be asked to:

- Provide input on the impact assessment methodologies and level of detail in your agency's area of expertise;
- Participate in coordination meetings, conference calls, and joint field reviews, as appropriate; and
- Review and comment on sections of the pre-draft or pre-final environmental documents to communicate any concerns of your agency on the adequacy of the document, the alternatives considered, and the anticipated impacts and mitigation.

Please provide your comments about the proposed alternatives to extend the Red Line south to the vicinity of 130th Street.

My most concern is that as we moved through this planning and EIS phases - I would like to see more inter-governmental planning coordinated. Also, that the density and activity (busiest station in the system) 95th Street Red-line station be identified as a ^{transportation} HUB. As part of the Red-line Oversight Committee, I truly hope that city government continues to make this project a priority Equity in transportation development projects and community needs (does really matter). Referenced the the Voorhees (VIC) + DCP report. We want to be sure this opportunity does not get lost in politics. We have to move forward and the commitments that our politicians have made - including the Mayor - This project must remain a priority and on the front-line.

The proposed route adjacent to UPRR^{RR} seems like a good route. Will it be east or west of the UPRR tracks. IF it ran above the UPRR or on existing tracks I think that will save a lot of homes from being razed

1 Please provide your comments about the proposed alternatives to extend the Red Line south to the vicinity of 130th Street.

I firmly believe that a high speed electric trolley bus similar to Boston Massachusetts Green Line (down a modified Eggleston Avenue in Chicago) could've been less expensive to build and quicker to implement. It, as I envisioned it, also would've run parallel to UPRR

2 I DO NOT BLAME THE CTA FOR FOOTDRAGGING on constructing the Red Line Extension. From a business standpoint it would be foolhardy to invest in an area where graffiti and vandalism is common, assaults on women and girls could easily occur at the construction sites, and finally - CTA riders FLOUT advisories against eating, littering, radio playing and smoking on vehicles

I AM IN AGREEMENT THAT AN EXTENSION TO THE RED LINE TO 130TH ST. IS MUCH NEEDED. FROM WHAT I AM HEARING IT DOESN'T HAVE A CHANCE ON BECOMING A REALITY FOR THE NEXT 10 TO 20 YRS. I AM CONCERNED THAT WITH WHAT YOU CURRENTLY HAVE, TRAVEL ON THE RED LINE FROM 95TH ST. TO DOWNTOWN HAS BECOME PAINFULLY SLOW DUE TO LACK OF MAINTENANCE TO THE TRACKS. ANOTHER CONCERN OF MINE IS THAT WHEN I VISITED OTHER CITIES WITH RAPID TRANSIT OR LIGHT RAIL SYSTEMS, PARKING IS AMPLE ON THE RED LINE. THE ONLY PARKING FACILITY IS HOWARD ST. UNTIL OR IF EVER THIS EXTENSION HAPPENS, I ~~WOULD~~^{WOULD} LIKE TO SEE THE TRACKS IN A STATE OF GOOD REPAIR SO THE TRAVEL TIME WOULD BE REDUCED TO NO MORE THAN 25 MINUTES FROM 95TH TO THE LOOP. WITH THE TRAVEL TIME BEING SO SLOW, I HAVE EITHER DRIVEN TO THE LOOP OR HAVE OPTED TO RIDE METRA OR THE SOUTH SHORE LINE SINCE IT GETS YOU FROM THE FAR SOUTH SIDE TO DOWNTOWN IN APPROXIMATELY 30-35 MINUTES

Proposed Red Line Extension to 130th Street

The Red Line Extension to 130th & Bishop Ford/I-94 is a wholly unnecessary and wasteful expenditure.

- The hundred million dollars for the Red Line extension represents a costly duplication of existing and nearby Metra and Northern Indiana Commuter Transportation District services to the South Suburbs.
- Suburban buses could be routed just as easily and more efficiently to existing suburban stations at 115th/Kensington, Riverdale, or Hegewisch or to a new station on the NICTD South Shore Line at 130th & Bishop Ford.
- The extension and station at 130th bypassing Roseland would be relevant to very few City residents that couldn't use existing Metra, NICTD and Pace services.
- Existing Pace services to 95th do not extend much beyond Harvey or into Indiana and do not afford the reach into distant suburbs provided by Metra and NICTD.
- Metra Electric offers nearly as many connections to east-west CTA buses across the South Side as the Red Line and Green Line combined, and to CTA trains downtown.
- If Metra Electric frequency is a community issue, add trains.
- If Metra Electric fares are an issue, incorporate Metra South Chicago and Blue Island and NICTD South Shore lines in the City into the CTA system as the Gray Line.
- The 2-person Metra crew represents a savings over the CTA 1-person crew and manned stations.
- The CTA extension would attract few if any new transit users without park-n-ride in addition to a bus transfer terminal. Parking facilities and a station could be built just as easily on the South Shore without a CTA rail extension.
- The CTA extension seeks to divert existing transit users from other services with lower fares that willfully increase its operating deficit. The premise seems to be that increasing the deficit raises the amount of State funding that can be brought into the City. There is complete disregard for regional fiscal responsibility and accessibility need priorities for transit.
- The only value in constructing the extension is in the State and Federal dollars brought into the City; and that competes with needs, some desperate, elsewhere.
- In a related matter, extending Metra/Gray Line local service to Hegewisch would open capacity for NICTD South Shore service growth to Northwest Indiana while facilitating expanded bus-rail transfers. Tracks used by the South Shore from the State Line are owned by Metra.

In the first place, you totally ignore existing transit infrastructure in the area that could be exploited more fully for less money.

The bus volume into 95th is more artificial and competitive than economic. While the service in Chicago is understandable, the number of Pace routes incurs significant additional mileage to feed the CTA than the nearest suburban Metra station whose service would be faster. These extra miles are not free of expense, consuming resources and limiting the ability to expand into unserved areas.

As I see it, a CTA extension to 130th would shorten the Pace feeder routes and avoid expressway congestion approaching 95th to be more compete on fare and travel time to poach Metra riders at a cost of a $-billion. I suspect that the cost for the length of trip for such service is above the system average and represents a subsidy equal to or greater than that for Metra.

The CTA Red Line Extension intermediate station volumes projected to be quite low, comparable to those proposed to be closed in a Red Line reconstruction between Clark Jct & Howard. Even so, the volumes probably include a fair number of Metra customers diverted from the nearby Electric and Rock Island stations (didn't get a feel for those numbers from the study).

Yes, a transfer is required to continue north; but is the cost of a parallel line worth the new or diverted Metra riders attracted to the Red Line bound for north of the Loop?

Yes, in principal the Red Line should extend from the northern to the southern corporate limits; but given the existence of other alternatives, is this a responsible use of capital resources?

Finally, the proposed CTA extension would not tie in with Metra to reach suburban destinations, obliging parallel competing Pace-CTA services with a limited pot of dollars for operations.

I've been sitting back trying to understand why so many are against the red line being extended. Isn't 95th like the 2nd busiest station in the entire system? Doesn't that warrant an extension since so many buses feed into that terminal? None of the buses with the exception of the 29 cross another CTA rail line so people that take the bus out there don't have another option to get downtown and points beyond other than the red line. I used to have to take that long ride from the suburbs by the 352 or 353 daily and running the red line further south would eliminate a good portion of my commute. If I still lived out there I probably wouldn't take the 352 considering I don't see how that bus would end up anywhere but at 95th but the 353 was always my preferred bus and it would make sense for me to take that. While I can see the fight for the gray line, I think it is somewhat limited for what the red line extension is trying to do. If my final destination was downtown, then yes that would work but if I was trying to go elsewhere, Lakeview or points north or west, that creates an unnecessary transfer with a walk from Millennium Station to Wabash or State to the appropriate train. And before anyone jumps up and chews my head off, I'm just searching for clarification not a debate.

Congestion of vehicles or people? Wouldn't it be a lot cheaper to build a big parking garage at 95th with a huge bus terminal on the ground floor?

> The extension is needed to provide service to the most isolated > area in the city.

Isolated? It's squeezed in between two Metra lines with stations every half mile. Do you think folks in Scottsdale, Sauganash, Montclare, Mount Greenwood, or Garfield Ridge would agree that Roseland is "the most isolated area in the city?"

The bigger problem is that the Red Line extension area is low density. Roseland, West Pullman, and Pullman are all under 11,000 persons per square mile. For comparison, South Shore is 21,000, Lake View is 30,000.

Just how would FRA regs be any different with the Gray line since Metra would continue to operate its trains on its plant for a CTA service? Or continue to operate as Metra with an integrated RTA fare system?

The other advantage of the Gray Line is that Metra is not eligible (directly) for revenue from the dedicated RTA sales tax generated in the City. CTA could use this to purchase service from Metra, thereby making Metra whole. The suburban-generated tax revenue could be shifted to CTA mitigated by the purchase of service, offsetting the added expense of the Gray Line to the CTA.

Further Pace and CTA operating savings may be achieved by orienting buses to feed the Gray Line and Metra Electric rather than going much farther either to Downtown or 95th.

And how does that purchase of service align with the higher cost per passenger mile due to FRA regs and requirements? These folks deserve a higher subsidy? And don't think FRA will go away as PATH will tell you all about (far less a FRA railroad than the Gray Line would be)

With the Gray Line proposal, #95W-#95E and #103-#106 could be combined and returned to through routes across the South Side and connect with suburban rail services to Joliet, University Park, and Indiana as well as feeding the Gray Line to Downtown.
 Have I mentioned before that 130th & Bishop Ford is at the South Shore that could be transformed to a Gray Line branch from Hegewisch?

The most important fact is that the present 95th Street terminal of the Red line is the most congested in the city and the only way to relieve this is to extend the Red line into those territories feeding 95th. Decades ago planners thought the extension would be both east and west and left space in the two expressway medians. We now know that neither median is the best routing and the concept of the UP ROW or south Halsted competed and the UP won out as the best of both worlds, and undoubtedly the cheaper. The UP does bend east and touches the commercial strip. After crossing the Metra/CN its a surface operation to 130th.

Is 130th a great place for a terminal. It is a good place for parking. Desolate locations can still be secured and there is plenty of potential traffic on the Freeway. Those who want the express to downtown already have Hegewisch and Harvey. 130th can hold a super rail yard. The other "L" lines certainly don't boast packed trains at their end points, so why should the Red line be any different.

In short, the extension relieves 95th Street and that can only be done extending the "L". It cannot be done with a "pie in the sky" new Metra service. Of course, we could get Six Flags to develop a winter ski park on that mountain of landfill....that would be in the old tradition of interurban lines that went to a park at the end of the line.

Trains are trains and railways are railways; that's why some metropolitan systems like BART, Metro, and others act as regional services in outlying areas, and why Metra (electric and diesel) could serve as metropolitan lines in Chicago. There may be service characteristics that distinguish equipment needs; but these often are in conflict and less than ideal for different market segments. The CTA-Metra distinction is functionally artificial and political.

The provision for seating on rapid transit was made early on. Later, center doors and bowling alley seating were added for the relatively short runs, high loads, and constrained capacity of the Loop. Quarter-point doors improved access within the cars; and the State and Dearborn subways relieved the limited capacity of the Loop and the need to pack as many passengers as possible on the trains. Basically, I'm opposed to building a costly parallel rapid transit line to serve much the same area as an existing and underutilized rail line that could be exploited for much less money.

It's not Chicago's fault that the city is not perfectly geometric. But to keep from having the two rail services cloud their spheres of influence...."city of" equals CTA "L"... "suburbs and beyond" equals Metra.

130th ST maybe was picked out of a hat. It puts Altgeld Gardens within walking distance...good for demographics. I have a friend who says the Tribune did a story and 130th ST was given because there was plenty of space for a "super rail yard."

Personally, I am leaning back towards bending the line east to 115th ST and the Ford Freeway. Takes a while to get used to that name "freeway." If the tracks come back along the Metra/CN a connecting station could go in at Kensington, then the "L" goes east to 115th and Ford. You've got the second largest assembly hall and the new WalMart led retail going in there at 115th. There should be plenty of space for the parking facility. You're now a shorter one and a half mile from the college at 103rd and Altgeld is still within reach. Or if needed the line can turn south and go alongside the Freeway and still go to 130th ST.

Hey on the other sides the CTA has parking for the incoming commuters from the burbs....Rosemont, Forest Park, Wilmette, Skokie. Whats with this constant looking for reasons to deny the south side the "L." Yes, I'm defensive.

- It's obvious that without a stronger, coordinating, hand for RTA, self-serving expansion proposals like the CTA Red Line extension will abound.
- Metra services are categorized by CTA as serving longer trips to downtown. As a generalization there some truth to it; but it totally misrepresents the capacity and history for providing the frequent urban service expected in the City.
 - Metra Electric trains and infrastructure have the characteristics of heavy rail transit with multi-stream floor-level boarding and electric traction.
 - The Rock Island Blue Island and Electric South Chicago branches still schedule some rush-hour trains as little as ten and fifteen minutes apart respectively.
 - CTA fares are lower than Metra's and provided little reduction for transfers other than the monthly Link-up pass.
 - The alternative to increase the frequency and reduce the intervals between Metra trains, particularly on the Electric to 115th and Blue Island, is not even considered as it should if RTA were the lead agency.
 - The South Side Elevated Railway Company and Illinois Central Railroad both provided frequent urban rail transit services with similar steam locomotives and coaches. Both electrified and the IC eventually bought larger cars. Both continued to compete with the separate streetcar and bus companies.
 - It wasn't until 1946 when the CTA took over L-subway and surface operations that reduced fare transfers were instituted between the L-subway and surface lines. This drew City riders away from the IC or CRI&P and started the declines in riders and service.
- Much of the reduced Metra (xIC and xCRI&P) service stems from diversion to the CTA owing in part to bus service changes and the Dan Ryan Line construction.
 - The more Metra service was cut back to reflect lower demand, still more riders switched to the CTA.
 - Ridership declines were exacerbated by the deterioration of South Side neighborhoods and declining population that seems to be on the rebound.
 - Buses on 95th and 103rd do not continue across the corridor to facilitate use for passengers that might want to use Metra. Few 1/2-mile east-west CTA routes are available to feed existing Metra stations.
 - CTA bus routes in the study corridor are typically 1-mile apart.
- The report in the Tribune on Wednesday, April 11, 2007 regarding crowding and lack of capacity on the Metra Electric and NICTD South Shore is a shallow, biased, and unfair representation to justify the CTA initiative.
 - Sufficient capacity is available on tracks 2 & 3 for expanded, frequent urban service more extensive than proposed for the Gray Line with South Chicago, Blue Island, and Hegewisch branches.
 - Service to Hegewisch would relieve demand and crowding on the South Shore trains.
 - The Randolph Street terminal can be modified easily enough for the Gray Line and handle demands for frequent service.

- o Alternative reduced 15-minute skip-stop service to Blue Island and Hegewisch would allow reverse-peak Metra and South Shore trains to share tracks 2 & 3 and greatly expand suburban peak capacity for tracks 1 & 4.

Subject: Re: Gray Line Randolph St operation
To: "Adam H. Kerman" <ahk@chinet.com>

 A representative evening cycle begins at :00 at the top and proceeds at :02 min intervals. The Gray Line service consists of alternating South Chicago and Blue Island/Hegewisch trains on either a 4-train, 16-minute, or 3-train, 12-minute cycle. Given the additional capacity on the Metra side, continued Metra Blue Island Expresses every 16 minutes and alternating South Chicago and Mainline-Hegewisch trains on respective 8-minute headways for the Gray Line are another option.

Inbound reverse-commute trains would be augmented by equipment pulling out from the 12th St Yard on Track 2 to make up outbound trains. Gray Line would run left-hand on Tracks 2 & 3 in PM, Metra left-hand on Track 1 in AM.

This plan takes advantage of the yard lead between local tracks and the platform between tracks 4 & 5 at Randolph Street that can be isolated for fare control. Reverse running solves the terminal problem that would be more difficult and expensive to rectify; but it poses other issues down the line such as bi-directional signaling, crossovers, and boarding platform for direction of travel.

Please provide your comments about the proposed alternatives to extend the Red Line south to the vicinity of 130th Street.

Extending the Redline is a step in the right direction. Ten-twenty years ago it would have been an excellent idea! People live and travel well past 130th and much further east and west.

I hope a significant number of minority contractors will ~~not~~ be on board. Subs provided for local people in the area and how many home ^{owners} will be affected by the extension.

① When will this happen?

② My Church is at 115 street closer to the Bishop Ford Expressway, so will it be that close to the expressway?

③ Will there be buses at these stops?

④ When these new stops are built and the trains coming Northbound for downtown will there be no seats and riders would have to stand.

⑤ Will there be an fare increase?

⑥ Where is the money coming from to extend the redline?

To be honest the major things I am concerned about is have community benefit agreement.

I want to make sure the community has a voice and that ^{minority} businesses are going get their fair share.

The physical proposals I have read the reports to make an accurate assessment. From the presentation I don't get a clear idea what going on. all I get is they are working on the process & they will keep us informed I would like to see a specific person who is in charge of community and a community organization in an advisory capacity.

I would like to be kept informed on the progress of this project as it will have huge impact on my neighbors, as well as, our group. We weren't informed about any opportunity to have input in the past, despite your notices. I find it curious there weren't any postings at Wendell Smith Park, being as everyone around here would/will be impacted by this project if your "Locally" Preferred Alternative continues as suggested. I would like to be put on a mailing list that would provide information, schedules, and opportunities for public input. I have questions to pose when you at the stage where you will provide answers!

Thank you for including me in this briefing. I would like to be informed of where and when the next community input meeting will be held. There are a lot of questions, I have concerned the true location of the elevated tracks, since I live at 115th and State! There is already a train track at the end of the block that has caused structural damage to our home. The addition of more trains plus the vibrations, noise and traffic that will accompany it are beyond any reasonable plan. Please be more specific in your replies, not just the already available information on the www.

I encourage you to consider issues with coordination with Region (Northwest Indiana) mass-transit systems and highways. Coordinating to connect with region bus authority buses and building sufficient, safe parking at the 130th St terminal will encourage commuters and tourists to use the CTA rather than congesting the expressways and downtown streets by driving to work and entertainment venues. The Red Line serves Soldier Field, Wrigley, and US Cellular Field – if people on the south side and northwest Indiana could safely and conveniently park their car where space is abundant and ride in, it would improve the downtown experience for residents and tourists alike.

Thank You for your consideration,

8/03/2011

I'm having some serious problems with this Redline Extension, this project has been in the works for 20+ years and I know that most of the community that the new station will go through are a ruff area. Does it really take that long? Does that area not have any TIF funds available? When the community cried out about closing the Greenline "Homan" stop you all took it away anyway. The community in and around the new Morgan St. station said that they wanted a station built because there is no bus service or rail stations in that area, or you have to walk blocks to get to where you want to go in that area. The Blacks have been asking for this extension for years. Now you need another 2 years to do another survey. There was never any public hearings on the Morgan St. station or if it was it was so little known about it. You all had pretty signs the other night, but what was it all for? You had CDOT money for that project, but no money for the extension project, I'm just not getting it. The you all are buying camera's to put in every station, but the thugs have taken over 95th, 87th, 79th, 69th, and 63rd street stations. Police @ 95th spend most of their days in that corner office or talking to CTA employee's. Do I feel safe at any of these stations, "No I don't". Why do Police officers come to the customer service desk, ask the clerk to sign a form and then leave? What are you paying these guys to do? you seem to have money to buy all of this equipment but no one is manning them. How is it that people can come and shit on the platform piss on the platform and never and do mean never get caught, that's crazy. The police never ride past the 35th Sox stop going South. you all need to monitor your employee's more. whatever happen to the secret travel program, after you all got a ton of how your employee's really work the program kind of disappeared. I ride CTA because I like how I can get from one part of the city to another with less hassle, but I never ever speak or ask a CTA employee anything because they are so rude to a person just asking for directions. When it comes time for you all to ask Springfield for money, I sit at my desk at work and call and tell them to not give you all a dime, the employee's are just to rude. The bus driver's are again about to start letting the school kids get on the bus without using that fare card...it happens every year. you need a system that monitors your employee's. The supervisor's are to buddie, buddie with their co-workers do that system is really broke. come stand at 95th with me and I can spot all the problem and just show them to you

Appendix K Fact Sheets

Draft Environmental Impact Statement Issues

The Draft Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) will analyze potential impacts to environmental, social, and economic resources of the area surrounding each Red Line Extension alternative. Some of the effects would be beneficial such as increased transit access, reduced travel time, and reliability or reduced congestion on area streets. While only very preliminary evaluations of the project area have been conducted to-date, it is likely that there would not be substantial impacts to natural resources such as wildlife, wetlands, air quality, or water quality. The resources in the project area that could experience impacts will be identified in the Draft EIS along with potential mitigation measures.

During scoping in 2009, the community expressed concerns about potential impacts related to traffic, property acquisitions, community and neighborhood compatibility, visual and aesthetic effects, and noise and vibration. This handout provides a preliminary summary of some of these potential effects, focusing mainly on the Locally Preferred Alternative – Union Pacific Railroad (UPRR) Alternative.

Traffic – The proposed line would be elevated and would not have at-grade crossings that could increase traffic congestion. All alternatives would include new park and ride facilities at each station and there could be traffic effects in the vicinity of the stations that would be evaluated in the Draft EIS. Mitigation measures would be developed to help offset potential impacts. Overall, the effect of the extension would be expected to be beneficial as more people would be able to access transit and reduce the number of cars on the roads.

Community and Neighborhood Compatibility – None of the alternatives would divide neighborhoods with new transit structures, but the project could change the character of some blocks. Through community involvement and context sensitive design, mitigation measures would be developed to address this potential impact in a way that would be acceptable to the community.

Visual/Aesthetics – All of the build alternatives envision an elevated line that would be constructed adjacent to freight lines, businesses, and residences. Some neighborhoods are oriented so that the new transit line would face the fronts of homes while in other neighborhoods the new tracks would face the sides or backs of homes. How this orientation affects the visual conditions of each neighborhood will be studied in the Draft EIS.

Property Acquisition – Ideally CTA would like to operate in UPRR right-of-way so that there are no / minimal property impacts and will work with UPRR to negate / minimize property impacts. CTA is also evaluating two options for the Union Pacific Railroad (UPRR) Heavy Rail Transit Alternative - the East Side Option and the West Side Option, if UPRR right-of-way is not available. The amount of acquisition will depend on UPRR expansion plans and clearance requirements. If acquisition is required, the effects could range from a narrow easement along the edge of a property to a full acquisition and property owners would be compensated in compliance with federal laws.

Historic Resources – Several structures within the project area are older than 50 years and could potentially be considered historic. The Draft EIS will conduct a survey of such structures and determine the eligibility of each for listing on the National Register of Historic Places.

Noise and Vibration - Construction involves the use of heavy equipment which can create noise, work zones that can have visual impacts, traffic detours, and activities that generate dust which can all affect neighboring properties. Operation of a rail transit system can generate noise and vibration. Mitigation measures would be developed to reduce these potential impacts.

Parks – The East Side Option of the UPRR alternative could directly affect portions of Wendell Smith and Block Parks, while the West Side Option could affect portions of the Fernwood Parkway. If these impacts were allowed, mitigation would be required.

UPRR Alignment Options Comparison

	West Side Option	East Side Option
Length of extension	5.3 miles
New stations	4 new stations near 103 rd , 111 th , 115 th , and 130 th Streets

Expected travel time savings from 130 th Terminal to Loop, compared to No Build Alternative	20.50 Minutes
Increased mobility	Fewer transfers

Potentially affected properties	Ideally CTA would like to operate in UPRR right-of-way so that there are no / minimal property impacts and will work with UPRR to negate / minimize property impacts.

Transit Projects and Your Property

Ideally CTA would like to operate the Red Line Extension in Union Pacific Rail Road (UPRR) right-of-way so that there are no / minimal property impacts and will work with UPRR to negate / minimize property impacts. As part of the federal environmental review process, CTA has to evaluate different alternatives for potential impacts and mitigation measures.

How does CTA acquire private property for a project?

Government programs designed to benefit the public as a whole can result in acquisition of private property and, sometimes, in the displacement of people from their residences or businesses. State and federal constitutions recognize the need for public agencies to purchase private property for public use. Congress passed the Uniform Relocation Assistance and Real Property Acquisition Policies Act of 1970 (The Uniform Act), and amended it in 1987. The Uniform Act, along with state and federal constitutions, authorize this purchase and assure full protection of the rights of each property owner. As a public agency, CTA can purchase private property for public use, such as for a transit project.

How is property appraised and acquired?

CTA must appraise and purchase properties needed for a transit project in accordance with federal rules. If CTA is interested in acquiring your property, or a portion of it for a transit project, you, the property owner, will be notified as soon as possible. Shortly thereafter, an independent appraiser will contact you to make an appointment to inspect your property. The appraiser is responsible for determining the initial fair market value of the property. You, or a representative that you designate, will be invited to accompany the appraiser when the appraiser inspects your property. You or your representative may provide information about improvements to the property and any special features that may affect the value of the property to CTA's appraiser to ensure that these facts are considered in the appraisal. After the appraisal and a review appraisal is completed (and approval of CTA's funding agencies is obtained, if required), CTA will present a written offer for the property based upon the appraised value of the property. CTA is legally required to offer to purchase your property for an amount that is not less than the appraised value of the property.

Does CTA assist with relocation for those displaced by the property acquisition?

CTA will provide financial assistance and relocation services, as required by federal rules, for property owners and for commercial and residential occupants who must move because of a transit project. Both owners and occupants are contacted promptly by CTA and/or its relocation consultant after CTA has presented an offer to the property owner to acquire the property. The relocation procedure as well as eligibility for relocation payments and advisory services to be provided by CTA and/or its relocation consultant is explained.

Will the Red Line Extension project require any residential or business relocation?

The land acquisition, displacements, and relocations sections of the Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) will present a summary of the potential impacts related to residential and non-residential relocations. The Draft EIS, when complete will be available for public review.

CTA continues to make progress on the proposed Red Line Extension project.

Red Line Extension — What's New

- Red Line Extension is now part of the YOUR RED Program to extend and enhance the entire Red Line
- CTA pursued and received $8.4 Million in federal funding for preparing Environmental Impact Statements (EIS) for YOUR RED projects
- Red Line Extension is identified as a Priority Project in the Chicago Metropolitan Agency for Planning's GO TO 2040 Regional Transportation Plan
- EIS Scoping completed
- Next Step – Prepare Draft EIS

Project Purpose

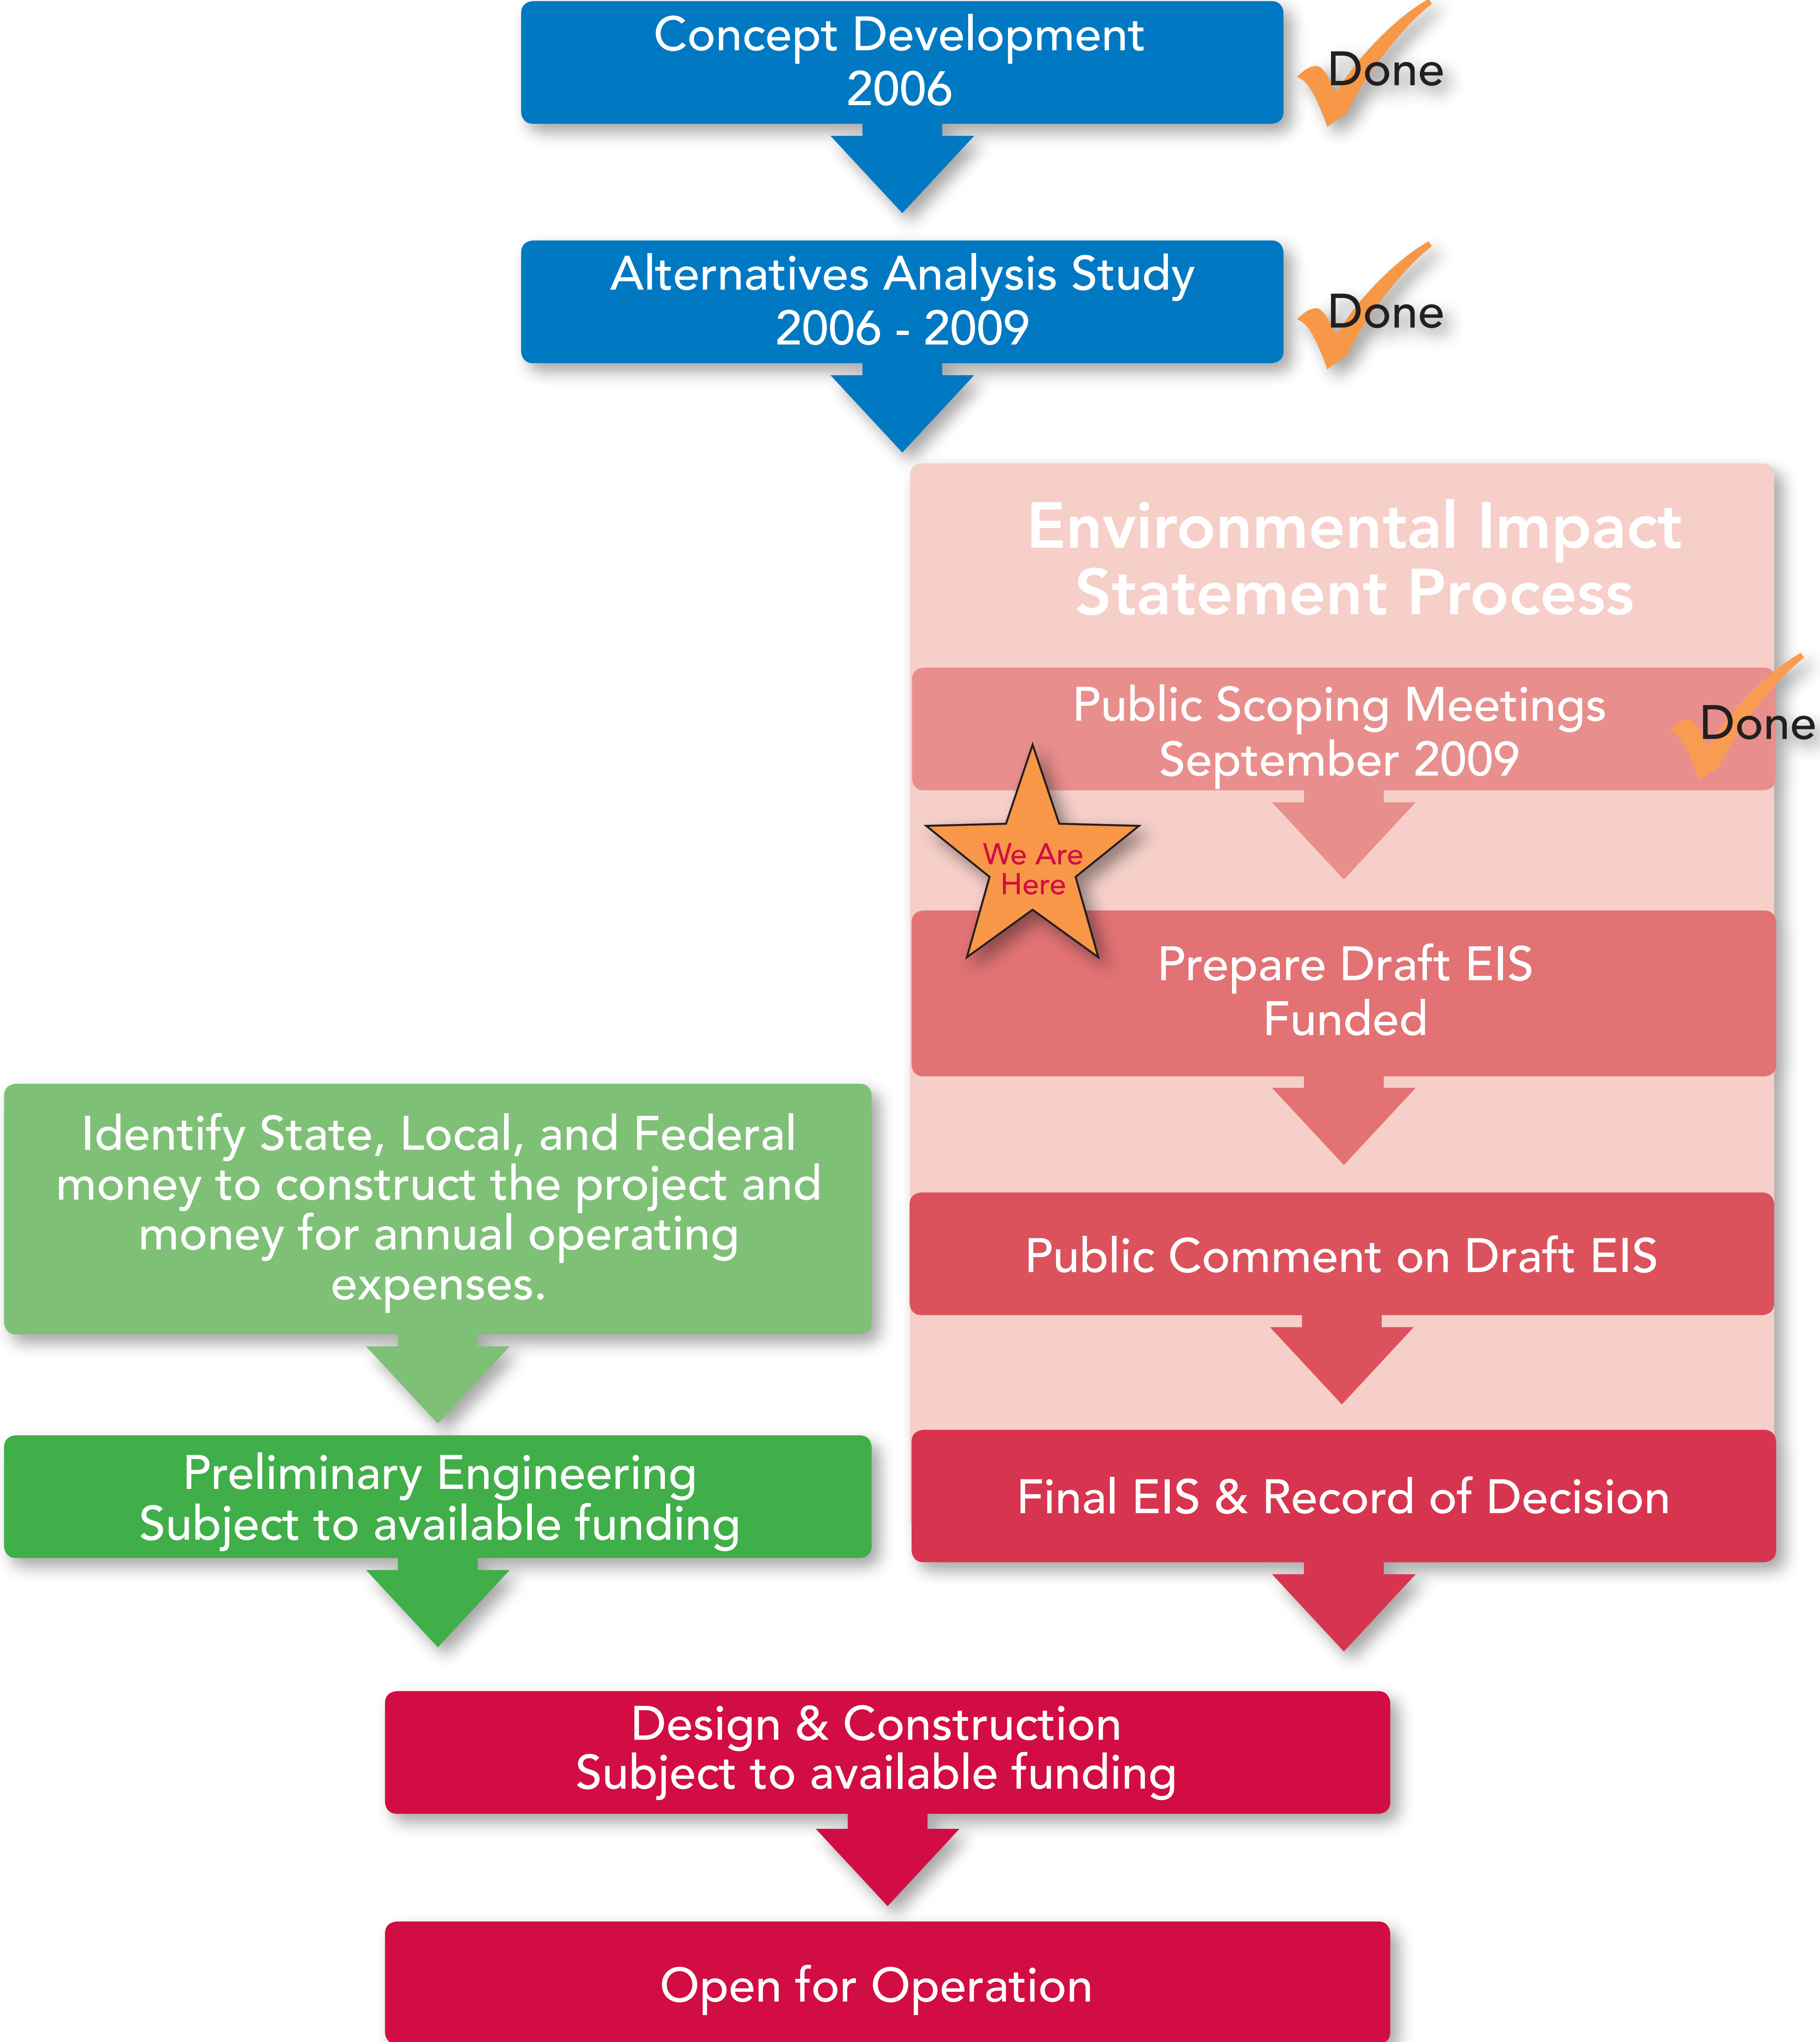

- Enhance economic competitiveness and neighborhood livability through access and mobility improvements
- Reduce travel times to jobs and community destinations for Far South Side and South Suburban residents
- Increase transportation choices
- Improve transit performance
- Support community revitalization initiatives

Why Extend the Red Line?

- Reliable and timely access to employment centers and community destinations is not readily available on the Far South Side
- 95th Street Terminal has poor passenger access with no Park & Ride
- Riders experience delays at the 95th Street Terminal due to crowded nearby intersections and insufficient space for bus transfers
- Crowded conditions at 95th Street Terminal for buses and riders may result in safety issues
- Road congestion in the Far South Side limits mobility
- Area population is highly transit-dependent

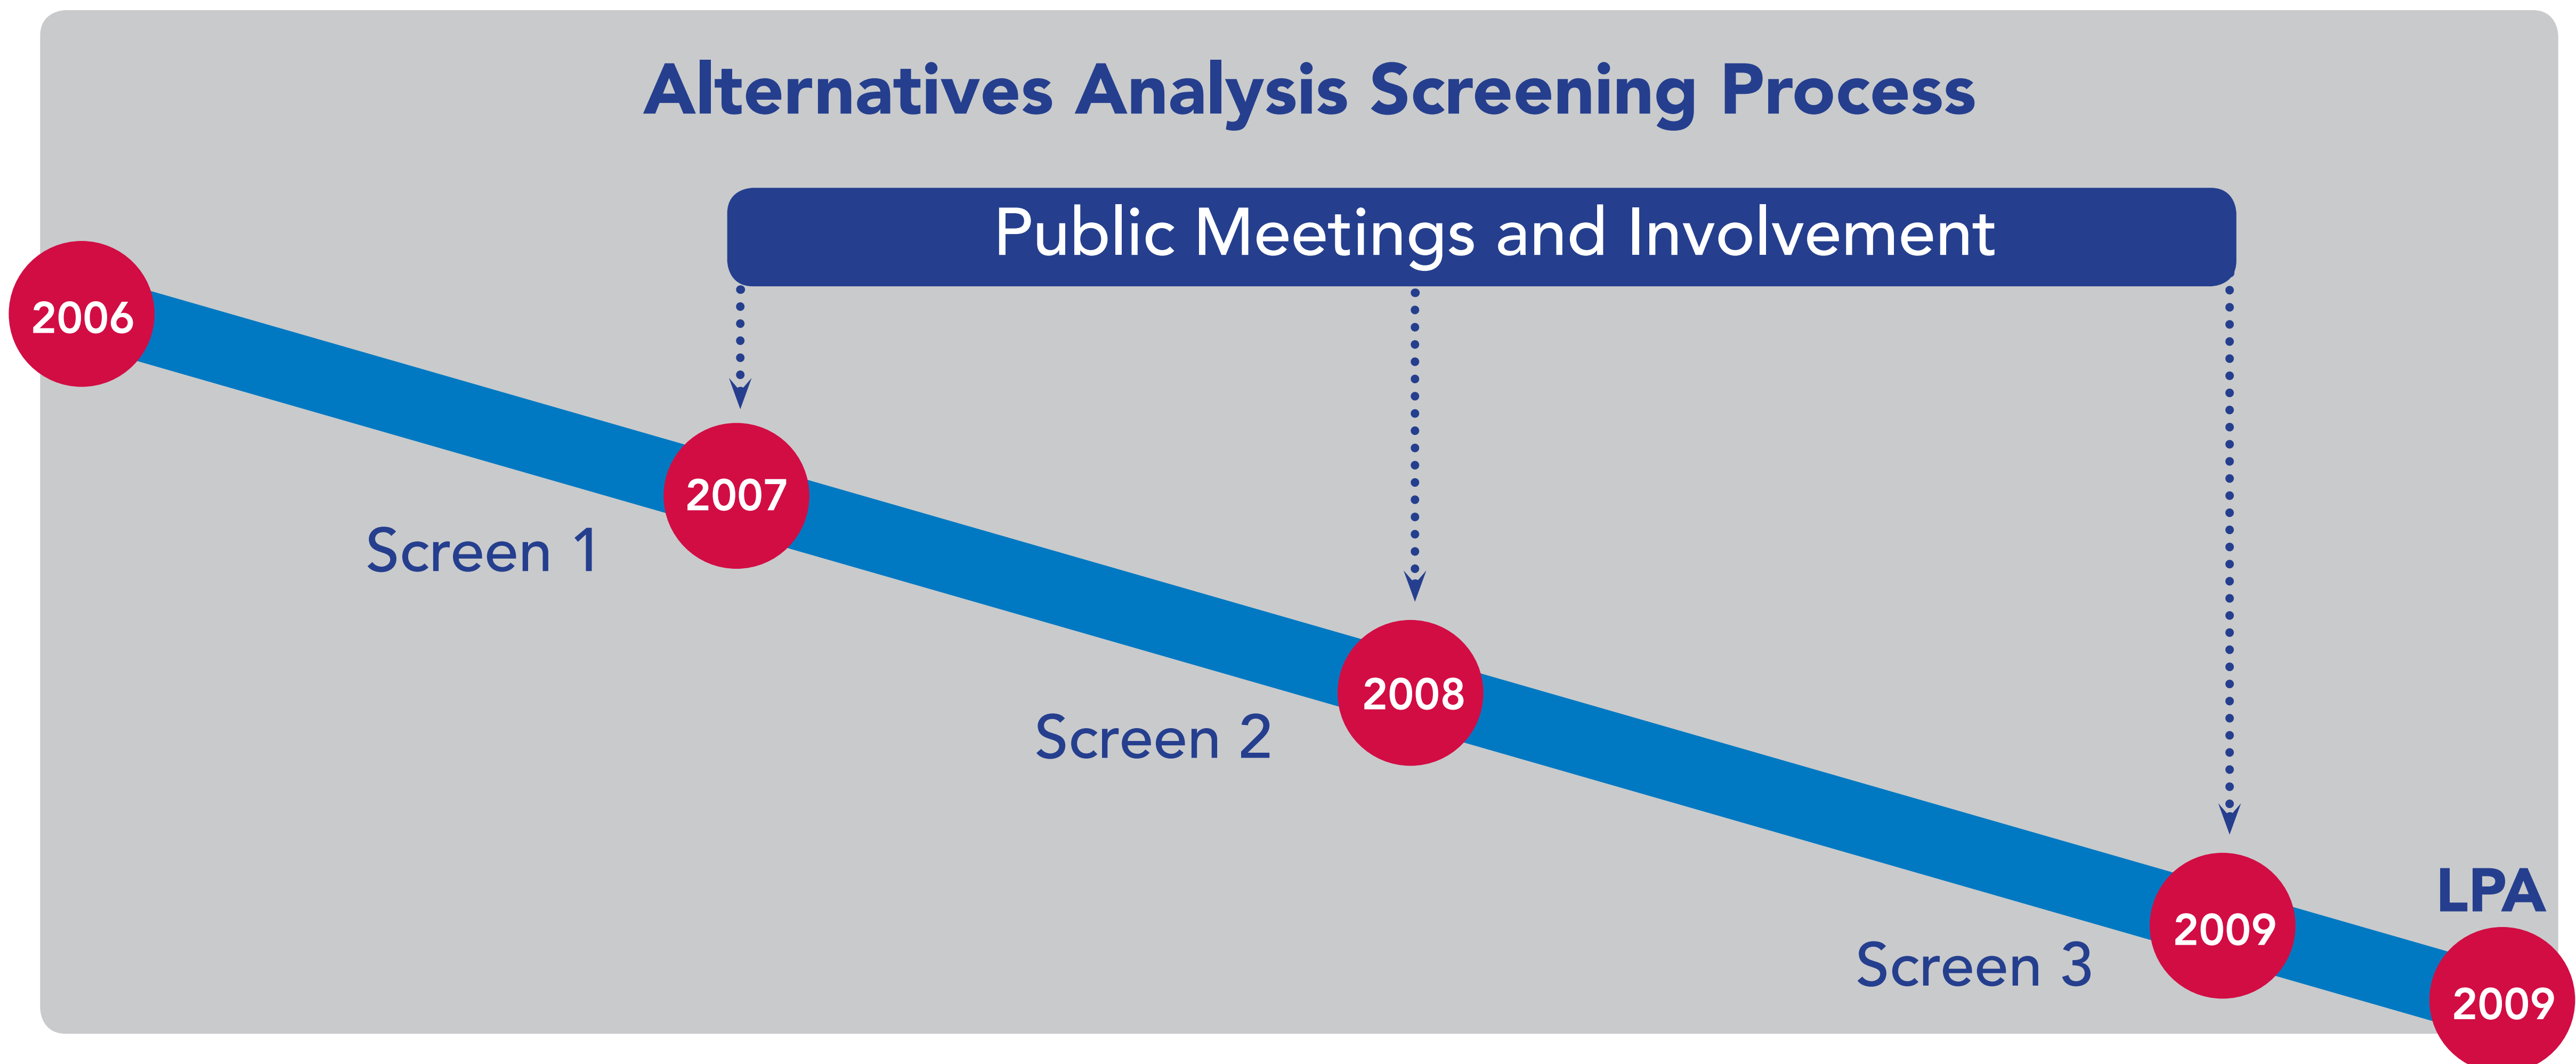

Project Development Process

Planning for the Red Line Extension

Alternatives Analysis 2006 - 2009

- CTA adopted the Union Pacific Railroad Heavy Rail Transit Alternative as the Locally Preferred Alternative (LPA).

Environmental Impact Statement Scoping meetings, September 2009

- More than 340 comments were received and we heard from you that this is an important project with significant benefits.
- Comments received during scoping will be addressed in the Draft EIS. The Scoping Report summarizing your input can be found at www.transitchicago.com/redeis or by calling Customer Service at 888-YOUR-CTA.

Environmental Review Process

The Federal Transit Administration and CTA have initiated the federal environmental review process and are preparing an Environmental Impact Statement (EIS).

 - Transportation System Management (Bus Rapid Transit)
 - Halsted Street
 - Union Pacific Railroad - the Locally Preferred Alternative
- Existing environmental setting
- Potential impacts from construction and operation of each alternative
- Proposed mitigation measures to minimize potential impacts

This process will help refine the locally preferred alternative.

- Noise and Vibration
- Energy Use
- Zoning and Economic Development
- Cumulative Impacts such as from Secondary Development
- Construction Impacts

Other issues may be added for evaluation as needed.

Appendix C Agency Coordination and Public Involvement

August 2013 Newsletter

CTA wants to keep you informed about our proposed Red Line Extension (RLE) Project, part of the Red Ahead Program, a comprehensive initiative for maintaining, modernizing, and expanding Chicago's most-traveled rail line.

RLE Project:

The CTA is proposing to make transportation improvements by extending the Red Line from the 95th Street Terminal to the vicinity of 130th Street. The proposed 5.3-mile extension would include four new stations near 103rd, 111th, Michigan, and 130th Streets.

RLE Project Status:

Since the RLE Project open house meeting during the summer of 2011, we have started the technical analysis of the project and are preparing a Draft Environment Impact Statement (EIS) on behalf of Federal Transit Administration (FTA), which is the federal lead agency for the project.

What is an Environmental Impact Statement?

RLE Project will require significant federal funding for construction. To acquire federal funding, an EIS is required by the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA). An EIS includes a description and comparison of each of the studied alternatives, explanation of the existing environmental setting and community context, and analysis of potential positive and negative effects of construction and operation of each alternative.

What's Next for RLE?

The CTA is continuing to coordinate with communities and will be hosting an open house and attending community group meetings throughout the winter to share preliminary findings of the environmental studies and learn about the communities' desires and concerns. After that outreach, we will make sure the proposed project responds to community concerns, and then issue the Draft EIS in conjunction with the FTA. A public hearing will be held on the Draft EIS in 2014.

Red Line South Reconstruction Project:

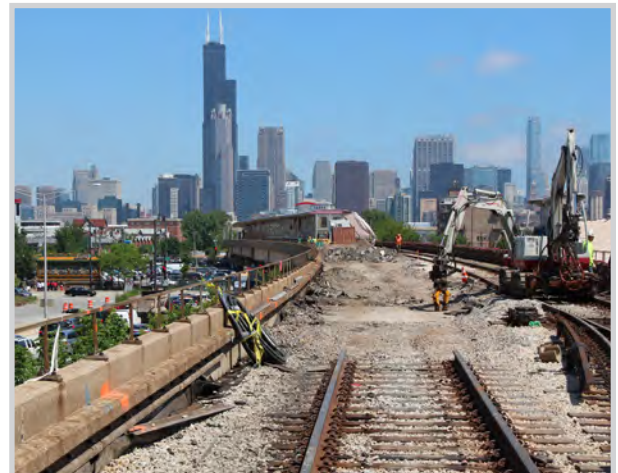

The CTA is rebuilding the tracks along the Red Line's Dan Ryan Branch from Cermak-Chinatown to 95th/Dan Ryan—a project that will provide faster, smoother and more reliable service for Red Line South riders. Crews are replacing everything in the track bed, including ties, rail, third rail, ballast and drainage systems. Red Line South stations are receiving improvements ranging from new canopies, paint, and lighting upgrades to new benches and bike racks, plus accessibility upgrades (including new elevators) that will make the entire 10.2-mile route fully accessible. The project is on time and the Red Line South is expected to reopen in October.

The work is part of Mayor Rahm Emanuel's Building a New Chicago program, updating infrastructure critical to the city. Funding for the work is part of more than $1 billion in federal, state and local funding announced in late 2011 by Governor Pat Quinn and Mayor Emanuel for the Red and Purple lines.
