The CTA, in conjunction with the Chicago Department of Planning and Development, is conducting a development-focused study that is separate but concurrent with the Red and Purple Modernization transit construction project (RPM Phase One). The purpose of the Transit Oriented Development (TOD) study is to encourage specific, community-supported redevelopment strategies for the land impacted by the RPM Phase One project construction.

Because the TOD study is community-driven, we are relying on your input. This is the first in a series of three public meetings. The meeting will provide residents and business owners with an opportunity to learn about the study, review the market analysis, talk one-on-one with the CTA study team and provide feedback and input on the overall vision for the plan.

We look forward to seeing you. If you have questions or need additional information, you may contact us at RPM@transitchicago.com or visit www.transitchicago.com/rpmproject.

If you require an interpreter, including sign language services, or other accommodations at this meeting, contact Jeff Wilson, CTA Government and Community Relations Director, at least five days prior to the meeting at (312) 681-2712 or JWilson@transitchicago.com.
